Animal Characters Bruce Thomas Boehrer, 2011-06-29 During the Renaissance horses long considered the privileged even sentient companions of knights errant gradually lost their special place on the field of battle and with it their distinctive status in the world of chivalric heroism Parrots once the miraculous articulate companions of popes and emperors declined into figures of mindless mimicry Cats which were tortured by Catholics in the Middle Ages were tortured in the Reformation as part of the Protestant attack on Catholicism And sheep the model for Agnus Dei imagery underwent transformations at once legal material and spiritual as a result of their changing role in Europe's growing manufacturing and trade economies While in the Middle Ages these nonhumans were endowed with privileged social associations personal agency even the ability to reason and speak in the early modern period they lost these qualities at the very same time that a new emphasis on and understanding of human character was developing in European literature In Animal Characters Bruce Thomas Boehrer follows five species the horse the parrot the cat the turkey and the sheep through their appearances in an eclectic mix of texts from romances and poetry to cookbooks and natural histories He shows how dramatic changes in animal character types between 1400 and 1700 relate to the emerging economy and culture of the European Renaissance In early modern European culture animals not only served humans as sources of labor companionship clothing and food these nonhuman creatures helped to form an understanding of personhood Incorporating readings of Shakespeare's plays Milton's Paradise Lost Margaret Cavendish's Blazing World and other works Boehrer's series of animal character studies illuminates a fascinating period of change in interspecies relationships

Mindful Crafts as Therapy Cynthia Evetts, Suzanne Peloquin, 2017-04-28 Arts and crafts were one of the very first therapies employed by occupational therapists Today crafts are still employed as effective interventions for clients with mental health disorders physical dysfunctions cognitive issues and sensory concerns in hospitals outpatient clinics veterans centers schools skilled nursing facilities or community settings Step by step the authors show you how to use a wide range of novel and highly engaging crafts They explain how to connect the key tasks associated with an activity to functional outcomes and how to modify them to meet the specific needs of individual patients They also address the issues of documentation and reimbursement

Platonism and Positivism in Psychology Mortimer Jerome Adler, 1994-12-01 Psychology is a field of many paradoxes Since its earliest beginnings as a natural science psychologists have been in search of their proper subject matter Today they are in less agreement than ever In this classic text originally published as What Man Has Made of Man Mortimer J Adler goes to the root of the problem He shows that psychology is simultaneously a particular social science and a branch of philosophical knowledge These two parts must be distinguished from yet related to each other if sound philosophical analysis is to replace bad philosophizing which scientific psychologists too often use to describe their research findings Adler also examines the scientific contribution of psychoanalysis by distinguishing it from Freud's meta psychology which he shows to be an inadequate statement of the traditional or classical philosophical positions Adler believes that psychology is crucially important in modern culture It is theoretically important because it is central to the errors of modern philosophy It has practical significance because economic moral and political doctrines are determined by the view that man reviews his own nature To understand the history of modern times and to correct its normative deviations we must according to Adler consider what man has made of man This engaging analytical study will be a valuable tool for psychologists psychoanalysts philosophers and sociologists
