

Chapter 39Endocrine and Reproductive Systems*Section 39–1 The Endocrine System (pages 997–1002)

This section describes the function of the endocrine system and explains how it maintains homeostasis.

Introduction (page 997)

1. What makes up the endocrine system? The endocrine system is made up of glands that release their products into the bloodstream.
2. What do the products of the endocrine system do? They broadcast messages throughout the body.

Hormones (page 997)

3. Chemicals that travel through the bloodstream and affect the activities of other cells are called hormones.
4. How do hormones affect the activities of other cells? Hormones bind to specific chemical receptors on other cells.
5. Cells that have receptors for a particular hormone are referred to as target cells.
6. Is the following sentence true or false? Cells without receptors are not affected by hormones. true
7. Is the following sentence true or false? Generally, the body's responses to hormones are quicker and shorter lasting than the responses to nerve impulses. false

Glands (page 998)

8. An organ that produces and releases a substance, or a secretion, is called a(an) gland.
9. Complete the Venn diagram by adding titles.

10. What is the function of the parathyroid glands? Their function is to regulate the level of calcium in the blood.

Intercellular Signaling in Development and Disease Edward A. Dennis, Ralph A. Bradshaw, 2011-04-08 Cell signaling which is also often referred to as signal transduction or in more specialized cases transmembrane signaling is the process by which cells communicate with their environment and respond temporally to external cues that they sense there All cells have the capacity to achieve this to some degree albeit with a wide variation in purpose mechanism and response At the same time there is a remarkable degree of similarity over quite a range of species particularly in the eukaryotic kingdom and comparative physiology has been a useful tool in the development of this field The central importance of this general phenomenon sensing of external stimuli by cells has been appreciated for a long time but it has truly become a dominant part of cell and molecular biology research in the past three decades in part because a description of the dynamic responses of cells to external stimuli is in essence a description of the life process itself This approach lies at the core of the developing fields of proteomics and metabolomics and its importance to human and animal health is already plainly evident Provided by publisher
