rich stories of how social workers psychologists counselors and child and youth care workers can help young people become more resilient With ample case studies and fascinating explanations of research Dr Ungar shows why we need to work just as hard changing the environments that surround children as we do changing children themselves Building on lessons learned from clinical community and residential settings Dr Ungar discusses 20 skills that can enhance the effectiveness of frontline mental health services Along with descriptions of the skills necessary to talk with clients about the factors that put their mental health at risk Working with Children and Youth with Complex Needs also presents systemic practices clinicians can use in their everyday work Engaging with children s extended family addressing issues of community violence racism and homophobia and helping parents and teachers understand children s maladaptive coping strategies as sometimes necessary are among the many practical strategies that are discussed which clinicians can use to enhance and sustain the therapeutic value of their work

Centering Humanism in STEM Education Bryan Dewsbury,Susannah McGowan,Sheila S. Jaswal ,Desiree Forsythe,2024-09-24 Research demonstrates that STEM disciplines perpetuate a history of exclusion particularly for students with marginalized identities This poses problems particularly when science permeates every aspect of contemporary American life Institutions repeated failures to disrupt systemic oppression in STEM has led to a mostly white cisgender and male scientific workforce replete with implicit and or explicit biases Education holds one pathway to disrupt systemic linkages of STEM oppression from society to the classroom Maintaining views on science as inherently objective isolates it from the world in which it is performed STEM education must move beyond the transactional approaches to transformative environments manifesting respect for students social and educational capital We must create a STEM environment in which students with marginalized identities feel respected listened to and valued We must assist students in understanding how their positionality privilege and power both historically and currently impacts their meaning making and understanding of STEM
