11. Imagine that Caleb earns $50,000 gross pay and $40,000 net pay. Caleb takes out a long-term disability insurance policy with post-tax dollars to replace 60% of his pay. How much will Caleb receive per month if he becomes disabled? What is the advantage of using after-tax dollars to purchase the policy?

12. Josie is planning to start a family in three years and is debating taking out a short-term disability insurance policy or saving up in an emergency fund for her time on maternity leave. The short-term disability policy has a monthly premium of 3% of her $35,000 income for a $1,200 benefit per month for a disabling event. Her maternity leave would last 6 weeks. Calculate which is the better option money-wise and explain which you would choose regardless of cost.
