Phonological Templates in Development Marilyn May Vihman, 2019-10-30 This book explores the role of phonological templates in early language use from the perspective of usage based phonology and exemplar models and within the larger developmental framework of Dynamic Systems Theory After analysing children s first words and their adult targets Vihman sets out procedures for establishing the children s later prosodic structures and templates drawing on data from American and British English Estonian Finnish French Italian and Welsh she also provides briefer longitudinal accounts of template use in Arabic and Brazilian Portuguese The children are found to begin with simple word forms that match their selected adult targets this is followed by the production of more challenging words adapted to fit the child s existing patterns Early accuracy is replaced by later recourse to an inner model a template of a favoured word shape The book also examines the timing fading quantification and function of child phonological templates In addition two chapters focus on the use of templates in adult language in the core grammar and in the more creative morphology of colloquial short forms and hypocoristics in French and Estonian and of English rhyming compounds The idea of templates is traced back to its origins in Prosodic Morphology but its uses are most in evidence in the informal settings of adult language at play Throughout the volume the discussion returns to the issues of emergent systematicity the roles of articulatory and memory challenges for children and the similarities and differences in the function of templates for adults as compared with children      The Pathology of Cardiac Transplantation Ornella Leone, Annalisa Angelini, Patrick Bruneval, Luciano Potena, 2017-01-20 This is the first book to focus entirely on the role of pathology in cardiac transplantation linked to the clinical perspective through clinical pathological correlation multidisciplinary team working and collaborative research It provides a scientific framework with up to date pathological protocols and classification schemes and guides the reader through the chronological phases of the transplant process in a step by step approach Topics include end stage heart failure with pathologies encountered in the native heart current issues surrounding donor selection the multiple faces of rejection pathology correlated with clinical management and immunology other post transplant complications details of pediatric and combined heart other organ transplantation and a useful practical appendix Many high quality images and illustrative cases are presented along with learning points and ample references Transplantation medicine today is continuously changing as collaborative research into novel diagnostic techniques and immunosuppressive therapies translates into improved recipient management and survival This book is aimed at practicing transplant pathologists and specialist trainees It will also appeal to general pathologists and to physicians and surgeons involved in cardiac transplantation who need to understand the role of pathology in the clinical management of transplant recipients      Medical Imaging Mostafa Analoui, Joseph D. Materials Research Using Cold Neutrons At Pulsed Neutron Sources Chun Keung Loong, Pappannan Thiagarajan, F. Trouw, Beverly A. Marzec, 1999-04-29 The applications of the use of cold neutrons for condensed matter research at accelerator based spallation sources are less well known than that of the use of cold neutrons at reactor sources. This book represents the outcome of the first international workshop on Materials Research Using Cold Neutrons at Pulsed Sources. It consists of overviews of the present status and future trends in research opportunities using cold neutrons as well as topical papers focusing on the areas of small angle neutron scattering reflectivity and spectroscopic studies of a rich variety of materials from adsorbed molecules to thin films to coal to metallic glasses. These papers will benefit researchers who are interested in the characterization of microscopic properties of advanced materials.

Contagious Couplings Mark Southern, 2005 This volume examines relationships between native languages and Yiddish. It highlights the historical and sociolinguistic development of Turkic, Iranian, South Asian, Slavic, Greek, Balkan, Judeo, Armenian, Georgian, and Basque languages. One of the main focuses is on the adopted post-medieval and pre-modern Yiddish speaking Ashkenazi homelands of Eastern Europe. The book emphasizes the role of ludic or playful modifications of a language's structures at the colloquial level as sources of linguistic change. And it goes further to say that expressive language, linguistic iconicity, and etymological analysis can all complement and enrich each other.
