Women's Empowerment for Sustainability in Africa Robert Dibie,2019-01-17 This book uses an open explorative approach to deal with the different aspects of gender discrimination and gender empowerment policies as well as their impact on economic development and capacity building in several African countries. It uses primary and secondary data to present the argument that without the full input of women sustainable development will not be achieved in many African countries. This book is the first text written by knowledgeable gender issue experts that understand the culture of and lived and conducted research in Africa. It provides many examples of the relationships between gender and economic development around the African continent highlighting different processes and practices. As such the contributors here illustrate the impact of weak gender policies and the ability to adequately develop female capacity building that could lead to wide spread sustainable economic growth in Africa. They also explore a wide range of new dimensions and variables that are commonly ignored by other text books on gender equality. The book will help graduate undergraduate students and other readers to understand women's policies in the past present and future by analysing and illustrating cultural political and socio historical contexts which have shaped women's role in the economic and sustainable development of Africa.
