A Difficult Transition Mandira Sharma, Seira Tamang, 2016-10-25 The Sexual Violence and Impunity in South Asia research project coordinated by Zubaan and supported by the International Development Research Centre brings together for the first time in the region a vast body of research on this important yet silenced subject Six country volumes one each on Bangladesh Nepal Pakistan Sri Lanka and two on India as well as two standalone volumes comprising over fifty research papers and two book length studies detail the histories of sexual violence and look at the systemic institutional societal individual and community structures that work together to perpetuate impunity for perpetrators The essays in this volume focus on Nepal which though not directly colonized has not remained immune from the influence of colonialism in its neighbourhood In addition to home grown feudal patriarchal structures the writers in this volume clearly demonstrate that it is the larger colonial and post colonial context of the subcontinent that has enabled the structuring of inequalities and power relations in ways that today allow for widespread sexual violence and impunity in the country through legal systems medical regimes and social institutions The period after the 1990 democratic movement the subsequent political transformation in the aftermath of the Maoist insurgency and the writing of the new constitution has seen an increase in public discussion about sexual violence The State has brought in a slew of legislation and action plans to address this problem And yet impunity for perpetrators remains intact and justice elusive What are the structures that enable such impunity What can be done to radically transform these How must States understand the search for justice for victims and survivors of sexual violence This volume addresses these and related issues Published by Zubaan

The Elephant Has Two Sets of Teeth Alice Neikirk, 2023-10-12 This ethnography of Bhutanese refugees reveals how the language of compassion in humanitarianism is used to oppress vulnerable communities and erode their rights Alice Neikirk conducted fieldwork with Bhutanese who fled Bhutan resided in camps in Nepal and finally settled in the vastly different culture of Australia She observes that in accepting the role of humanitarian subjects refugees must abandon their role as contributors to the nation state and become satisfied with the position of guests Yet this charitable framework has sufficient cracks to allow for action The Bhutanese found ways to move between the contradictory expectations of refugee ness as they strive to become citizens The experiences of the Bhutanese illustrate the complex strands of power that intertwine to limit the scope of people who deserve compassion The well meaning discourse of humanitarianism has become the accepted means to absolve the conscience of global powers as they face increasing evidence of the injustices that nation building causes and that national boundaries sustain Readers in refugee Conflict, Education and People's War in Nepal Sanjeev Rai, 2018-02-19 This book presents an overview of the democracy movement and the history of education in Nepal. It shows how schools became the battleground for the state and the Maoists as well as captures emerging trends in the field, challenges for the state and negotiations with political commitments. It looks at the factors that contributed to the conflict and studies the politics of the region alongside gender and identity dynamics. One of the first studies on the subject, the book highlights how conflict and education are intrinsically linked in Nepal. It illustrates how schools became the centre of attention between warring groups and how they were used for political meetings and recruitment of fighters during the political transitions in a contested terrain in South Asia. It brings to the fore incidents of abduction and killing of teachers and students and the use of children as porters for arms and ammunitions. Drawing extensively on both primary and secondary sources and qualitative analyses, the book provides the key to a complex web of relationships among the stakeholders during conflict and also models of education in post conflict situations. This book will interest scholars and researchers in education, politics, peace and conflict studies, sociology, development studies, social work, strategic and security studies, contemporary history, international relations and Nepal and South Asian studies.
