The Positive School Of Criminology:

The Positive School of Criminology Enrico Ferri, 2023-08-12 Enrico Ferri's The Positive School of Criminology is a groundbreaking work that explores the relationship between biological, psychological, and sociological factors in criminal behavior. Published in 1901, the book presents a new perspective on crime causation, emphasizing the importance of social conditions and individual traits in understanding criminal conduct. Ferri's writing style is scholarly and analytical, providing case studies and statistical data to support his theories. The book is considered a foundational text in the development of criminology as a science, influencing future researchers and policymakers in the field. Through extensive research and logical reasoning, Ferri challenges traditional theories of crime and punishment, paving the way for modern criminological studies. Enrico Ferri, a renowned Italian criminologist and socialist, drew on his background in law and sociology to write The Positive School of Criminology. His experiences as a lawyer and politician shaped his perspectives on crime and justice, leading him to advocate for reformatory approaches to criminal behavior. Ferri's commitment to social justice and scientific inquiry is evident throughout the book, making it a must-read for students and scholars interested in the complexities of criminology and criminal behavior.

The Positive School of Criminology Enrico Ferri, 2017-09-29 In criminology, the Positive School refers to the first scientific school consisting of the Italian criminologists Cesare Lombroso, Raffaello Garofalo, and Enrico Ferri. The Positive School supports the assumptions of positivism and argues that criminality is determined by the effect in a cause-effect sequence and that the mandate of the study of crime and criminology should be to search for these causes. It was believed that, with the exception of those deemed to be born criminals, the discovery of the causes of crime would allow for effective treatment. The old objects of punishment have been severely altered. Criminals are to be treated, not punished. Reformation is to be applied with discrimination to the various classes of criminals. The Positive School therefore adopts a medical model of crime as sickness and advocates a rehabilitative ideal that includes rehabilitation of offenders, indeterminate sentences, and the dominance of professionals in correctional decision-making. The Positive School would not hold the individual responsible for crime since they are determined by forces beyond their control. Prevention of crime by discovering as early as possible those with characteristics likely to lead to delinquency, altering the external conditions which make for crime, and throwing around each person the influences which make for social behavior is receiving primary emphasis. The shift from individual to social responsibility for crime has also resulted in the rise of Juvenile Courts, indeterminate sentences, and wider attempts at social control of crime. The Positive School of Criminology by Enrico Ferri: The positive school of criminology was born in our own Italy through the singular attraction of the Italian mind toward the study of criminology and its birth is also due to the peculiar condition of our country with its great and strange contrast between the theoretical doctrines and the painful fact of an ever-increasing criminality.

When in the turmoil of my daily occupation I received an invitation several months ago from several hundred students of this famous university to give them a brief summary in short special lectures of the principal and fundamental conclusions of criminal sociology I gladly accepted because this invitation fell in with two ideals of mine These two ideals are stirring my heart and are the secret of my life In the first place this invitation chimed with the ideal of my personal life namely to diffuse and propagate among my brothers the scientific ideas which my brain has accumulated not through any merit of mine but thanks to the lucky prize inherited from my mother in the lottery of life And the second ideal which this invitation called up before my mind's vision was this The ideal of young people of Italy united in morals and intellectual pursuits feeling in their social lives the glow of a great aim It would matter little whether this aim would agree with my own ideas or be opposed to them so long as it should be an ideal which would lift the aspirations of the young people out of the fatal grasp of egoistic interests General Principles of Criminal Law Jerome Hall,2010
