Pattee,1933-01-01 We are beginning to realize that the Civil War marks a dividing line in American history as sharp and definitive as that burned across French history by the Revolution That the South had been vastly affected by the war was manifest from the first The widespread destruction of property the collapse of the labor system and the fall of the social regime founded on negro slavery had been so dramatic and so revolutionary in their results that they had created everywhere a feeling that the ultimate effects of the war were confined to the conquered territory Grady s phrase the new South and later the phrase the end of an era passing everywhere current served to strengthen the impression That the North had been equally affected that there also an old regime had perished and a new era been inaugurated was not so quickly realized The change there had been undramatic it had been devoid of all those picturesque accompaniments that had been so romantic and even sensational in the South but with the perspective of half a century we can see now that it had been no less thoroughgoing and revolutionary The first effect of the war had come from the sudden shifting of vast numbers of the population from a position of productiveness to one of dependence A people who knew only peace and who were totally untrained even in the idea of war were called upon suddenly to furnish one of the largest armies of modern times and to fight to an end the most bitterly contested conflict of a century First and last upwards of two millions of men the most of them citizen volunteers drawn all of them from the most efficient productive class were mustered into the federal service alone It changed in a moment the entire equilibrium of American industrial life This great unproductive army had to be fed and clothed and armed and kept in an enormously wasteful occupation But the farms and the mills and the great transportation systems had been drained of laborers to supply men for the regiments The wheatfields had no harvesters the Mississippi the great commercial outlet of the West had been closed by the war and the railroads were insufficient to handle the burden
