The Political Economy of Hungary Adam Fabry, 2019-04-03 This book explores the political economy of Hungary from the mid 1970s to the present Widely considered a poster boy of neoliberal transformation in post communist Eastern Europe until the mid 2000s Hungary has in recent years developed into a model illiberal regime Constitutional checks and balances are non functioning the independent media trade unions and civil society groups are constantly attacked by the authorities there is widespread intolerance against minorities and refugees and the governing FIDESZ party led by Prime Minister Viktor Orbán controls all public institutions and increasingly large parts of the country's economy To make sense of the politico economical roller coaster that Hungary has experienced in the last four decades Fabry employs a Marxian political economy approach emphasising competitive accumulation class struggle both between capital and labour

as well as different fractions of capital and uneven and combined development The author analyses the neoliberal transformation of the Hungarian political economy and argues that the drift to authoritarianism under the Orb n regime cannot be explained as a case of Hungarian exceptionalism but rather represents an outcome of the inherent contradictions of the variety of neoliberalism that emerged in Hungary after 1989

Prime Ministers in Central and Eastern Europe Florian Grotz, Jan Berz, Corinna Kroeber, Marko Kukec, 2025-01-12 Prime Ministers PMs are the most influential powerful and visible politicians in parliamentary democracies Their prominent role has been increasing in Western democracies due to the presidentialization of politics But is this also true for new democracies such as those in post communist Central and Eastern Europe CEE As politics in CEE has been characterized by high personalization weak voter party linkages and strong media influence of political leaders prime ministerial performance may be even more important for the functioning of parliamentary democracy in those countries At the same time conventional wisdom suggests that prime ministers in CEE perform weakly because they lack political experience and operate in an extraordinarily difficult context but this assumption has not been systematically examined To close this research gap this book presents a new conceptual approach to measuring prime ministerial performance and offers a novel dataset of 131 cabinets in eleven CEE countries between 1990 and 2018 The comparative analyses of this data reveal that the political experience of post communist prime ministers varies considerably they range from politically inexperienced outsiders to insiders with long standing careers in parliament government and party leadership At the same time multivariate analyses of the quantitative data and qualitative cases demonstrate that variations in the careers contexts and performance of prime ministers are systematically connected In this way the book not only qualifies conventional assumptions about prime ministers in CEE but also substantiates the theoretical relationship between their careers contexts and performance Prime Ministers in Central and Eastern Europe thus contributes to an enhanced understanding of the functioning of post communist democracies and provides new insights for scholarly work engaging with political leadership Comparative Politics is a series for researchers teachers and students of political science that deals with contemporary government and politics Global in scope books in the series are characterized by a stress on comparative analysis and strong methodological rigour The series is published in association with the European Consortium for Political Research For more information visit www.ecprnet.eu The series is edited by Nicole Bolleyer Chair of Comparative Political Science Geschwister Scholl Institut LMU Munich and Jonathan Slapin Professor of Political Institutions and European Politics Department of Political Science University of Zurich

Contemporary Europe William Outhwaite, 2016-10-04 Europe is one of the most dynamic and interesting areas of the world pioneering in the European Union a new form of governance for half a billion people represented in the world's first directly elected transnational parliament This book situates the European Union in a broader European global historical and geographical context providing a readable presentation of the most important facts and drawing on the theoretical approaches which have transformed the study of contemporary Europe over the past two decades The European Union is still on the road to what has been called an unknown destination and this book presents its economic political legal and social trajectory from the middle of the last century to the present Contemporary Europe covers some of these issues in an interdisciplinary framework

aiming to situate the development of the European Union in a broader context of pan European and global processes Europe has been cut down to size but it does not have to become a global backwater and the study of contemporary Europe's institutional reality does not have to be boring The book counter this misperception conveying the essential facts and theories of contemporary European reality in a clear and approachable analysis It will serve as a readable introduction both to the academic field of European studies and to contemporary Europe itself (Post)Socialist Transformation of Primary Schools Jiří Zounek,Oto Polouček,Michal Šimáně,2024-05-09 This book addresses the transformation of primary education in the former Czechoslovakia now the Czech Republic after the fall of the communist regime in 1989 It follows the overall transformation of education and school policy and offers original insights into the everyday life of the schools at that time It also provides a unique perspective on the whole transformation process The work discusses the school environment in the context of specific local characteristics such as parents community regional institutions and national and international contexts The book specifically focuses on the changes in primary school management in terms of economics organization and personnel The processes of pedagogical change are an essential theme of the book They cover how teachers proceeded through the changes in their work at the time of the transformation and the reasons for their resistance to change including the challenges that the transformation introduced into their work and personal lives The book also monitors how the teachers navigated the selection and use of new textbooks and tools such as digital tools The work originates in historical pedagogical research based primarily on the oral history method and complemented by the study of contemporary documents

The Economics of the Audiovisual Industry: Financing TV, Film and Web Mario La Torre,2016-12-23 This book is open access under a CC BY licence Recent reductions in public funding for audiovisual products have led to dramatic changes in the industry The lack of interaction between the industry and capital markets has made sourcing funds for audiovisual products especially difficult This book explains why the distance between the audiovisual and financial markets exists and considers the perspective of both audiovisual companies and financial intermediaries Providing a thorough overview of the audiovisual industry in three major categories television cinema and web it analyses the financing behind each The author adapts the traditional assessment methods to include exploitation rights distribution deals and risk determinants he also proposes a pricing model for the audiovisual products demonstrating that prices and values in a industry of prototype goods do not depend solely on cost and revenue The book also includes a methodology for analysing the economics of the sector the different sales agreements between broadcasters and the distribution deals between distributors and independent producers Finally a description of the main financial products for private finance is provided as well as an explanation of how public funds can act as leverage to catalyze private resources through the use of guarantee funds In The Economics of the Audiovisual Industry the author suggests that rather than relying on subsidized public support the audiovisual industry should foster private public partnerships and market dynamics to promote an alternative funding model based on a profitable and long lasting connection between the audiovisual and financial markets The valuation model both for products and firms proposed in this book are at the basis of this new approach
