Principles of Social Economy Yves Guyot,1884     Retailing: The evolution and development of retailing A. M. Findlay,Leigh Sparks,2002     The Industrial History of England Henry de Beltgens Gibbins,2015-12-22 Example INTRODUCTORY THE ROMANS AND THEIR SUCCESSORS TRADE 1 ALTHOUGH the industrial history of England does not properly begin until the settlement made by the Norman Conquest it is nevertheless impossible to omit some reference to the previous economic condition of the country As everybody knows the Romans were the first to invade Britain although it had been known probably for centuries previously to the Phenicians and Carthaginians who used to sail here for its tin and lead The Romans however first colonized the country and began to develop its resources and they succeeded in introducing various industries and in opening up a considerable commerce Under Roman sway Britain reached a high level of prosperity and there is abundant evidence of this fact from Roman writers They speak of the rich natural productions of Britain of its numerous flocks and herds of its minerals of its various commercial facilities and of the revenues derived from these sources We know that there were no less than fifty nine cities in Britain in the middle of the third century A D and the population was probably fairly large though we have no certain statistics upon this point 1 Large quantities of corn were exported from the land as many as 800 vessels being sent on one occasion to procure corn for the Roman cities in Germany This shows a fairly advanced agriculture Tin also was another important export as indeed it has always been and British slaves were constantly sent to the market at Rome In the country itself great material works such as walled towns paved roads aqueducts and great public buildings were undertaken and remained to testify to the greatness of their builders long after their name had become a distant memory The military system of the Romans helped to produce industrial results for the Roman soldiers took a prominent part in road making building dykes working mines and the great engineering operations that marked the Roman rule The chief towns very largely owed their origin to their importance as military stations and most of them such as York London Chester Lincoln Bath and Colchester have continued ever since to be considerable centres of population though of course with occasional fluctuations When however the Romans finally left Britain in A D 410 both trade and agriculture began to sink the towns decayed and for centuries England became the battle ground of various predatory tribes from the Continent who gradually effected a settlement first in many kingdoms but finally in one and became known as the English or the Anglo Saxon nationality A D 827 To be continue in this ebook      The American Robert Ellis Thompson,Wharton Barker,1886      American Publishers' Circular and Literary Gazette ,1857      London and the Kingdom - Volume II Reginald R. Sharpe,2020-08-11 Reproduction of the original London and the Kingdom Volume II by Reginald R Sharpe
