The Iron Age Round-House D. W. Harding, 2009-11-19 In contrast to Continental Europe where the Iron Age is abundantly represented by funerary remains as well as by hill forts and major centres the British Iron Age is mainly represented by its settlement sites and especially by houses of circular ground plan apparently in marked contrast to the Central and Northern European tradition of rectangular houses In lowland Britain the evidence for timber round houses comprises the footprint of post holes or foundation trenches in the Atlantic north and west the remains of monumental stone built houses survive as upstanding ruins testimony to the building skills of Iron Age engineers and masons D W Harding's fully illustrated study explores not just the architectural aspects of round houses but more importantly their role in the social economic and ritual structure of their communities and their significance as symbols of Iron Age society in the face of Romanization from the arrival of the first engine on a barge to today s realities Rails Across the Prairies traces the evolution of Canada s rail network including the appearance of the first steam engine on the back of a barge The book looks at the arrival of European settlers before the railway and examines how they coped by using ferry services on the Assiniboine and North Saskatchewan Rivers The work then follows the building of the railways the rivalries of their owners and the unusual irrigation works of Canadian Pacific Railway The towns were nearly all the creation of the railways from their layout to their often unusual names Eventually the rail lines declined though many are experiencing a limited revival Learn what the heritage lover can still see of the Prairies railway legacy including existing rail operations and the stories the railways brought with them Many landmarks lie vacant including ghost towns and elevators while many others survive as museums or

 Context of Technology explores non ferrous metalworking in Britain and Ireland during the Bronze and Iron Ages c 2500 BC to 1st century AD Bronze working dominates the evidence though the crafting of other non ferrous metals including gold silver tin and lead is also considered Metalwork has long played a central role in accounts of European later prehistory Metals were important for making functional tools and elaborate decorated objects that were symbols of prestige Metalwork could be treated in special or ritualised ways by being accumulated in large hoards or placed in rivers or bogs But who made these objects Prehistoric smiths have been portrayed by some as prosaic technicians and by others as mystical figures akin to magicians They have been seen both as independent travelling entrepreneurs and as the dependents of elite patrons Hitherto these competing models have not been tested through a comprehensive assessment of the archaeological evidence for metalworking This volume fills that gap with analysis focused on metalworking tools and waste such as crucibles moulds casting debris and smithing implements The find contexts of these objects are examined both to identify places where metalworking occurred and to investigate the cultural practices behind the deposition of metalworking debris The key questions are what was the social context of this craft and what was its ideological significance How did this vary regionally and change over time As well as elucidating a key aspect of later prehistoric life in Britain and Ireland this important examination by leading scholars contributes to broader debates on material culture and the social role of craft Ancient century and a half has revealed much evidence of ancient building of all functional categories Whereas the earlier excavation concerned mainly funerary and religious contexts more recent work has endeavoured to clarify the whole range of building in Cyprus This picture extends over a vast range of time ca 10 000 years since Cyprus is probably the place where the earliest substantial building known the Neolithic round house style is better presented than anywhere else in the world Certainly it was immeasurably longer lived in Cyprus than in any other region of the ancient world This longevity of tradition became a proverbial aspect of the Cypriote character It is the aim of this book to set forth and document this building tradition which hitherto has received no detailed exposition After preliminary geographical and historical introductions the ancient building of Cyprus has been surveyed and analysed from the following view points its historical development its design its construction and its foreign connections Because of the extensive and detailed coverage every effort has been made to facilitate the use of the book equally as a treatise and as a work of instant reference e g by way of introductory pre cis list of general references running titles to pages and marginal rubrics The book is also virtually a double treatment of the subject since a separate volume contains specially drawn illustrations arranged with captions on the facing pages which themselves constitute an incisive coverage of the subject matter The book will fill several gaps in the library shelves at one and the same time architectural history that presents all the archaeological evidence The print edition is available as a set of two volumes 9789004095472

National Railroad Adjustment Board,      The Northernmost Ruins of the Globe Bjarne Grønnow, Jens Fog Jensen, 2003-10-15 An important part of the heritage of Count Eigil Knuth 1903 1996 is his archaeological archive containing contextual information on prehistoric sites gathered during six decades of research in High Arctic Greenland The finds and observations are a key to the understanding of human life under extreme conditions in a long term perspective and represent a unique piece of evidence concerning the early cultural history of the Eastern Arctic Knuth s expeditions from 1932 to 1995 took him to Greenland and Canada in particular High Arctic Greenland In a number of important articles Knuth published the findings dating back to the earliest human settlement in Greenland However he never managed to present the complete body of information and results from his many investigations The present authors have thus compiled a computer database on the basis on his archive which constitutes the starting point of the present book The book focuses on Knuth's most substantial contribution to archaeology the prehistory of Peary Land and adjacent areas. In the catalog emphasis has been placed on topographical and architectural information, site structure, artefact statistics and radiocarbon dates. A total of 154 archaeological sites are presented. Fifty-one sites with a total of 244 features are Independence I sites c. 2460-1860 cal BC, twenty-three sites with a total of 416 features belong to Independence II c. 900-400 cal BC, and sixty-three sites with a total of 626 features are of Thule origin c. 1400-1500 ca AD. This study presents some new information on the faunal material from Peary Land based on Christyann Darwent's recent analyses as well as new data on the dwelling features on the Adam C. Knuth Site which was visited by a multidisciplinary team in 2001. It also offers an introduction presenting an overview and evaluation of Knuth's remarkable curriculum vitae as an independent arctic archaeologist. In the concluding chapters some basic statistics on the archaeological sites are presented. We evaluate Knuth's radiocarbon datings of the Independence I, Independence II, and Thule cultures in High Arctic Greenland and settlement distributions and settlement patterns for the three cultures represented in Peary Land are discussed.

Virginia Woolf Europe and Peace Transnational Circulations enlarges our understanding of Virginia Woolf's pacifist ideology and aesthetic response to the World Wars by re-examining her writings and cultural contexts transnationally and comparatively through the complex interplay between modernism, politics and aesthetics. The transnational paradigm that undergirds this collection revolves around the idea of transnational cultural communities of writers, artists and musicians worldwide who were intellectually involved in the war effort through the forging of pacifist cultural networks that arose as a form of resistance to war, militarism and the rise of fascism. The book also offers philosophical approaches to notions of transnational pacifism, anti-war ethics and decolonization, examining how Woolf's prose undermines center edge or self/other bifurcations. Breathing new life into Woolf's anti-war writings through a transnational lens and presenting us with the voices and perspectives of a range of significant scholars and critics, the chapters in this volume engage with mobile and circulatory pacifisms, calling attention to the intersections of modernist inquiries across the arts, art, music, literature and performance and transnational critical spaces. Asia, Europe and the Americas to show how the convergence of different cultural and linguistic horizons can significantly expand and enrich our understanding of Woolf's modernist legacy.

Young's Literal Translation of the Bible Young, Robert, 2014-06-14

Young's Literal Translation of the Bible is as the name implies a strictly literal translation of the Hebrew and Greek texts from the Textus Receptus and Majority Text. Compiled by Robert Young in 1862, he went on to produce a revised version in 1887 based on the Westcott-Hort text which had been completed in 1885. Young died on October 14, 1888, and the publisher released a New Revised Edition in 1898. Young used the present tense in many places where other translations used the past tense particularly in narratives The Preface to the Second Edition states If a translation gives a present tense when the original gives a past or a past when it has a present a perfect for a future or a future for a perfect an a for a the or a the for an a an imperative for a subjunctive or a subjunctive for an imperative a verb for a noun or a noun for a verb it is clear that verbal inspiration is as much overlooked as if it had no existence THE WORD OF GOD IS MADE VOID BY THE TRADITIONS OF MEN Emphasis in original For example the YLT version of Genesis begins as follows 1 In the beginning of God s preparing the heavens and the earth 2 The earth hath existed waste and void and darkness on the face of the deep and the Spirit of God fluttering on the face of the waters 3 And God saith Let light be and light is 4 And God seeth the light that it is good and God separateth between the light and the darkness 5 And God alled to the light Day and to the darkness He hath called Night and there is an evening and there is a morning day one Young s Literal Translation in the 1898 Edition also consistently renders the Hebrew Tetragrammaton the four Hebrew letters usually transliterated YHWH or JHVH that form a biblical proper name of God throughout the Old Covenant Testament as Jehovah instead of the traditional practice of LORD in small capitals which was used in editions prior to 1898 Young s usage of English present tense rather than past tense has been supported by scholars ranging from the medieval Jewish rabbi Rashi who advised If you are going to interpret this passage in its plain sense interpret it thus At the beginning of the creation of heaven and earth when the earth was or the earth being unformed and void God said Let there be light to Richard Elliott Friedman in his translation of the Five Books in The Bible with Sources Revealed 2002 There is a linked Table of Contents for each book and chapter Barra Patrick Foster,1995-01-01 Over the past six years a team of archaeologists historians and environmental scientists from the University of Sheffield explored the island of Barra They have discovered and recorded many hundreds of previously unknown sites and monuments excavated selected examples and carried out extensive environmental sampling and laboratory based analysis of all this evidence The first volume of reports focuses on the wild and rocky peninsula of Tangaval at the south western corner of the island In this seemingly inhospitable place on the westernmost margin of Europe perched on the very edge of the Atlantic Ocean the team have discovered almost 250 sites and monuments They range from the first rock shelter and occupation huts of the earliest settlers around 4000 BC to the abandoned settlements from which Macneils sailed to new homes in America and Australasia in the mid nineteenth century BC
