C. Nagasubramani, Adult learners have more options for enrolling in postsecondary education than ever before and they are able to use their learning style preference in deciding which program best meets their needs For some of these students those programs are fully online and for others there is minimal use of technology As technology grows and become more integrated into individual lives the unique learning styles and preferences of adults need to learn to be incorporated into instructional design Drawing on a regional sample of US colleges 545 adult learners in a graduate programs were surveyed about how to effectively build community in their online classes Results indicated some agreement with these instructional tools Mature adult learners however were found to have stronger agreement with strategies that included work outside of the formal online class These results suggest perhaps a greater comfort for adults in working in spaces where there is less likelihood of being judged or graded and that they might value relational work with other students in different ways than younger adults Power and Inequality in Interpersonal Relations Eric Beasley,2017-09-08 This book explores interpersonal situations in which weak or vulnerable people find themselves and the ways in which others help create sustain and eradicate such social dynamics Vladimir Shlapentokh and Eric Beasley demonstrate that people can gain power over each other and then abuse this power because of unequal resource conditions The authors define resources as the means necessary for satisfaction or achievement of needs or goals such as wealth physical strength intellectual capacity and information sexual attractiveness and status This volume is different from existing social science books on inequality and vulnerability which address relations between people of different social positions races genders ages and places of residence confronting each other in political economic and cultural battles This book focuses on people who become the victims of those whom they know personally relatives colleagues neighbors The authors argue that unequal resource distribution among members of social units is the main cause of conflict and ultimately creates situations where members of a social unit can abuse other members of the same unit
