

UNIT 1: LESSON 2 – TYPES OF COMMUNICATION

I. INTRODUCTION

Communication is both an art and a science. It often involves acts of speaking and listening, reading and writing, but it also goes beyond these and incorporates the transmission of non-verbal language, sign language, and messages communicated through music, and by other means. In this lesson, we will be discussing the different types of communication in relation to its mode, context, purpose and style.

II. OBJECTIVES

- Define communication.
- Differentiate communication according to its mode, context, and purpose and style.
- Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the different communication types.

III. INSTRUCTION TO THE LEARNERS

Before we start any discussions or activities always remember the following:

- Be ready with a pen and writing pad or notebook. You will need these things in all your activities.
- Follow all the instructions in every activity prepared for you. Look for assistance, if needed. You may ask your instructor or classmates for further clarification.
- Study carefully the examples; keep in mind all the important concepts and discussions.
- In case you encounter difficulty, do not hesitate to seek help from others who are knowledgeable on the topic.

IV. LEARNING ACTIVITES

Directions: Read the sentences below and choose the scenario that you can relate to.

- When my mother ends her message with a smiley face, I know that she is not upset. But when she sends messages like "Go home" or "Uwi ka na" without a smiley face, I get worried that she might be angry.
- Ending a response with an exclamation mark without any emoji might be misinterpreted as an angry tone; the funny emoji makes the message sound light and funny.
- When my mother calls me by my nickname, I know that she's not mad at me. But when I hear call my complete name, I know that she's mad at me and I will run fast as I can to check on why she's mad at me.
- When my classmate acknowledges my answer with an OK and a smiling emoji, I know that my message accepted warmly. But if it is just OK, I wonder if she understood what I said.
