Deliberative Accountability in Parliamentary Committees Cheryl Schonhardt-Bailey, 2022-03-14 In recent decades we have seen an explosion in expectations for greater accountability of public policymaking But as accountability has increased trust in governments and politicians has fallen By focusing on the heart of public accountability the reason giving by policymakers for their policy decisions i.e. deliberative accountability this work offers an empirical route for understanding why more accountability may not always deliver more public trust The focus is on the British Parliament where both the Treasury Select Committee and the House of Lords Economic Affairs Committee hold hearings on monetary policy financial stability and fiscal policy The intent in these hearings is to challenge policymakers to explain their decisions and thus the dialogue is expected to be deliberative But how do we judge the quality of this deliberative accountability Three metrics are explored and measured respect non partisanship and reciprocity The approach is multi method including 1 quantitative text analysis to gauge the verbatim transcripts in committee hearings 2 qualitative coding combined with an experimental design to gauge the role of nonverbal communication in the hearings and 3 interviews with the MPs peers central bankers and Treasury officials who participated in the hearings The first method measures the content of what was said the second examines how the words and arguments were expressed and the third provides a more reflective why component by asking participants to explain their motivations This merging of the what the how and the why offers a novel template for studying both accountability and deliberation Applications of Nonverbal Communication Ronald E. Riggio, Robert S.

Feldman, 2005-03-23 The goal of this edited volume is to present the practical applications suggested by research in non verbal communication as well as to highlight the limitations noting where we simply do not yet know enough to safely and fully inform practice Patient Assessment Tutorials: A Step-By-Step Guide for the Dental Hygienist Jill S.
