Using Reflection and Metacognition to Improve Student Learning Naomi Silver, Matthew Kaplan, Danielle LaVaque-Manty, Deborah Meizlish, 2023-07-03 Research has identified the importance of helping students develop the ability to monitor their own comprehension and to make their thinking processes explicit and indeed demonstrates that metacognitive teaching strategies greatly improve student engagement with course material This book by presenting principles that teachers in higher education can put into practice in their own classrooms explains how to lay the ground for this engagement and help students become self regulated learners actively employing metacognitive and reflective strategies in their education Key elements include embedding metacognitive instruction in the content matter being explicit about the usefulness of metacognitive activities to provide the incentive for students to commit to the extra effort as well as following through consistently Recognizing that few teachers have a deep understanding of metacognition and how it functions and still fewer have developed methods for integrating it into their curriculum this book offers a hands on user friendly guide for implementing metacognitive and reflective pedagogy in a range of disciplines Offering seven practitioner examples from the sciences technology engineering and mathematics STEM fields the social sciences and the humanities along with sample syllabi course materials and student examples this volume offers a range of strategies for incorporating these pedagogical approaches in college classrooms as well as theoretical rationales for the strategies presented By providing successful models from courses in a broad spectrum of disciplines the editors and contributors reassure readers that they need not reinvent the wheel or fear the unknown but can instead adapt tested interventions that aid learning and have been shown to improve both instructor and student satisfaction and engagement      Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1983 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70      Youth Activism in Environmental Politics, 2nd Edition Matt Henn, Sarah Pickard, 2023-02-02 Recently important new research has emerged to explain the large intergenerational cleavages in values and political preferences in many contemporary societies In most established democracies and many newer democracies young people are more likely to possess progressive values and are much more cosmopolitan in their outlook socially liberal accepting of cultural diversity and outward looking than older generations They tend to reject mainstream electoral politics and authoritarian nationalist forms of populism in favour of alternative progressive political parties and movements Indeed there is burgeoning evidence of a global tendency towards young people s support for and participation in new styles of non institutionalised political action that seem to better fit their life styles and to permit the actualisation of their political aspirations Although there is a considerable body of existing literature that examines the rise of such values and political participation preferences there is little work that focuses on the relationship with the prioritisation of environmental issues and environmental activism as evidenced in the September 2019 global climate strikes The goal of the current Research Topic is to explore the contemporary realities and patterns of youth participation in environmental politics in different societies As such we welcome manuscripts of original research and conceptualization that address the different practices of youth as they seek to effect environmental change and also their motivations for doing so Contributions are welcome from scholars youth practitioners and activists operating in a range of different settings and using diverse disciplinary and multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives
