Psychology in Action
Karen Huffman, Karen Dowdell, Catherine Ashley Sanderson, 2017 Revised edition of Psychology in action 2015 Rethinking Psychology Michael W. Eysenck, 2025-05-07 Can subliminal messages motivate behaviour Can you train your brain to increase your intelligence Does parenting style affect personality Psychologists and non psychologists looking to understand human behaviour and cognition are forced to contend with a number of complexities unique to the field Not least amongst these is the fact that psychology lacks the superficially attractive precision of theories in the hard sciences It is inevitable then that non psychologists are susceptible to numerous psychological myths In this thought provoking exploration of 43 of the most common psychological myths Michael W Eysenck examines the complexity of psychological science as well as the distortion of data not only through the media but also by researchers textbook writers and individuals themselves He challenges the notion that the substantial progress made by psychology has provided enough convincing experimental evidence to successfully demolish these inaccuracies and explores the ways in which psychological research should be systematically improved so that psychology can take its place as a robust scientific discipline Highly engaging this is an informative read for psychologists at all levels as well as members of the general public interested in challenging their own psychological understanding with the content and motivation to achieve the course's ultimate outcome: an enduring foundational understanding of psychological science. Developmental Psychology and Young Children's Religious Education Olivera Petrovich, 2022-12-16

Developmental Psychology and Young Children's Religious Education sets out to identify the conceptual pre-requisites for young children's religious education learning and clearly highlights the challenges that children and their teachers encounter in the RE educational process. Based on a study with 431 children aged 5 to 7 years from different schools (faith and non-faith) and 47 teachers from the same schools as the children, this book offers an insightful look into younger children's religious education, providing statistical evidence to dismantle the belief that young children lack the ability to conceptualise God in abstract terms. The information obtained from these children and their teachers reveals a major discrepancy between the teachers' perceptions of young children's conceptual abilities for RE learning on the one hand and children's actual abilities revealed in their responses throughout the study on the other. Based on the evidence described in the volume, Petrovich argues that teacher training courses for primary RE need to be designed to include a substantial component of contemporary developmental research that is of direct relevance to children's conceptual abilities and understanding of abstract concepts. Developmental Psychology and Young Children's Religious Education is essential reading for students and researchers in developmental psychology, religious education, teacher education, education studies, and cultural anthropology.
