Paratransit in African Cities Roger Behrens, Dorothy McCormick, David Mfinanga, 2015-09-07 Public transport systems in contemporary Sub Saharan African cities are heavily reliant upon paratransit services These services are defined as informal transportation which operates between the public and individual private spheres In Africa paratransit is characterized by low quality of vehicles and chaotic management but it also provides cheap accessible and flexible transport solutions for the urban poor It is typically poorly regulated and operates as a set of informal businesses A common result of weak public sector regulation and a fare strategy in which owners claim a fixed daily revenue target and drivers who keep the variable balance as income is destructive competition and poor quality of service There is an incontrovertible case for improving the quality reliability and coverage of public transport systems and some city governments have attempted to do so by initiating reform projects that envisage the phased replacement of paratransit operations with formalised bus rapid transit systems In this book the authors argue that there are however path dependencies and constraints that limit the possible extent of public transport system reform Paratransit operations also have some inherent advantages with respect to demand responsiveness and service innovation Attempts to eradicate paratransit may be neither pragmatic nor strategic Two future scenarios are likely hybrid systems comprised of both paratransit and formally planned modes and systems improved by upgrades and strengthened regulation of existing paratransit services The business strategies and aspirations of incumbent paratransit operators in three case cities Cape Town Dar es Salaam and Nairobi are discussed as well as their attitudes towards emerging public transport reform projects International experiences of hybrid system regulation and paratransit business development are reviewed in order to explore policy options The authors contend that policies recognising paratransit operators and seeking contextually appropriate complementarity with formalised planned services will produce greater benefits than policies ignoring their continued existence

Coloniality and Decolonisation in the Nordic Region Adrián Groglopo, Julia Suárez-Krabbe, 2023-03-22 This book advances critical discussions about what coloniality decoloniality and decolonisation mean and imply in the Nordic region It brings together analysis of complex realities from the perspectives of the Nordic peoples a region that is often overlooked in current research and explores the processes of decolonisation that are taking place in this region The book offers a variety of perspectives that engage with issues such as Islamic feminism and the progressive left racialisation and agency among Muslim youths indigenising distance language education for Sami extractivism and resistance among the Sami the Nordic international development endeavour through education Swedish TV reporting on Venezuela creolizing subjectivities across Roma and non Roma worlds and hierarchies and the whitewashing and sanitisation of decoloniality in the Nordic region As such this book extends much of the productive dialogue that has recently occurred internationally in decolonial thinking but also in the areas of critical race theory whiteness studies and postcolonial studies to concrete and critical problems in the Nordic region This should make the book of considerable interest to scholars of history of ideas anthropology sociology cultural studies postcolonial studies international development studies legal sociology and intercultural philosophy with an interest in coloniality and decolonial social change New Serial Titles ,1992 A union list of serials commencing publication after Dec 31 1949 South African Digest ,1968 Uprooting University Apartheid in South Africa Teresa A. Barnes, 2018-12-07 South Africa continues to be an object of fascination for people everywhere interested in social justice issues postcolonial studies and critical race theory as manifested by the enormous worldwide attention given to the RhodesMustFall movement In this book Teresa Barnes examines universities complex positioning in the apartheid era and argues that tracing the institutional legacies left by pro apartheid intellectuals are crucial to understanding the fight to transform South African higher education A work of interpretive social history this book investigates three historical dynamics in the relationship between the apartheid system and South African higher education First it explores how the legitimacy of apartheid was historically reproduced in public higher education Second it looks at ways that academics maneuvered through and influenced national and international discourses of political freedom and legitimacy Third it explores how and where stubborn tendrils of apartheid era knowledge production practices survived into and have been combatted during the democratic era in South African universities Planning By Law and Property Rights Reconsidered Barrie Needham, Thomas Hartmann, 2016-04-22 Countries which take spatial planning seriously should take planning law and property rights also seriously There is an unavoidable logical relationship between planning law and property rights However planning by law and property rights is so familiar and taken for granted that we do not think about the theory behind it As a result we do not think abstractly about its strengths and weaknesses about what can be achieved with it and what not how it can be improved how it could be complemented Such reflections are essential to cope with current and future challenges to spatial planning This book makes the often implicit theory behind planning by law and property rights explicit and relates it to those challenges It starts by setting out what is understood by planning by law and property rights and investigates theoretically and by game simulation the relationships between planning law and property rights It then places planning law and property rights within their institutional setting at three different scales when a country undergoes enormous social and political change when there is fundamental political debate about the power of the state within a country and when a country changes its legislation in response to European policy Not only changing institutions but also global environmental change pose huge challenges for spatial planning The book discusses how planning by law and property rights can respond to those challenges by adaptive planning by adaptable property rights and by public policies at the appropriate geographical level Planning by law and property rights can fix a local regime of property rights which turns out to be inappropriate but difficult to change It questions whether such regimes can be changed and whether planning agencies can make such undesirable lock ins less likely by reducing market uncertainty and if so by what means

Guide to Books, 1929 Contents v 1 History travel description The Palaeolithic Origins of Human Burial Paul

Pettitt, 2010-12-20 Humans are unique in that they expend considerable effort and ingenuity in disposing of the dead Some of the recognisable ways we do this are visible in the Palaeolithic archaeology of the Ice Age The Palaeolithic Origins of Human Burial takes a novel approach to the long term development of human mortuary activity the various ways we deal with the dead and with dead bodies It is the first comprehensive survey of Palaeolithic mortuary activity in the English language Observations in the modern world as to how chimpanzees behave towards their dead allow us to identify core areas of behaviour towards the dead that probably have very deep evolutionary antiquity From that point the palaeontological and archaeological records of the Pliocene and Pleistocene are surveyed The core chapters of the book survey the mortuary activities of early hominins archaic members of the genus Homo early Homo sapiens the Neanderthals the Early and Mid Upper Palaeolithic and the Late Upper Palaeolithic world Burial is a striking component of Palaeolithic mortuary activity although existing examples are odd and this probably does not reflect what modern societies believe burial to be and modern ways of thinking of the dead probably arose only at the very end of the Pleistocene When did symbolic aspects of mortuary ritual evolve When did the dead themselves become symbols In discussing such questions The Palaeolithic Origins of Human Burial offers an engaging contribution to the debate on modern human origins It is illustrated throughout includes up to date examples from the Lower to Late Upper Palaeolithic including information hitherto unpublished
