Summary:

Cellular translation is the process by which the genetic information contained in messenger RNA (mRNA) is used to synthesize a specific protein. Translation occurs in the ribosomes of the cell, which are composed of ribosomal RNA (rRNA) and proteins. Translation begins when the ribosome reads the mRNA and synthesizes a polypeptide chain according to the genetic code, which is a set of rules that specify the sequence of amino acids in a protein. Transfer RNA (tRNA) molecules bring the correct amino acids to the ribosome and place them in the correct order based on the base pairing between mRNA and tRNA. The final protein product is then folded into its functional three-dimensional structure.
