Child Language Barbara C. Lust, 2006-09-21 The remarkable way in which young children acquire language has long fascinated linguists and developmental psychologists alike Language is a skill that we have essentially mastered by the age of three and with incredible ease and speed despite the complexity of the task This accessible textbook introduces the field of child language acquisition exploring language development from birth Setting out the key theoretical debates it considers questions such as what characteristics of the human mind make it possible to acquire language how far acquisition is biologically programmed and how far it is influenced by our environment what makes second language learning in adulthood different from first language acquisition and whether the specific stages in language development are universal across languages Clear and comprehensive it is set to become a key text for all courses in child language acquisition within linguistics developmental psychology and cognitive science

Child Language Acquisition Ben Ambridge, Elena V. M. Lieven, 2011-03-17 Is children's language acquisition based on innate linguistic structures or built from cognitive and communicative skills This book summarises the major theoretical debates in all of the core domains of child language acquisition research phonology word learning inflectional morphology syntax and binding and includes a complete introduction to the two major contrasting theoretical approaches generativist and constructivist For each debate the predictions of the competing accounts are closely and even handedly evaluated against the empirical data The result is an evidence based review of the central issues in language acquisition research that will constitute a valuable resource for students teachers course builders and researchers alike The First Year at School: An International Perspective Peter Tymms,Tiago Bartholo,Sarah Howie,Elena Kardanova,Mariane Campelo Koslinski,Christine Merrell,Helen Wildy,2023-06-26 This book explores an under researched but vital part of education the first year at primary elementary school The work shows that children s progress varies enormously from school to school class to class and child to child This variation is important because the more progress that children make in that first year of school the higher their academic attainment at the end of compulsory schooling The iPIPS international Performance Indicators in Primary Schools project upon which this book is based has been able to provide deeper insights into some of the key issues within and across different contexts whilst highlighting new and some ongoing issues Despite all the work there remain unanswered or new puzzling issues which are also explored We need to know how to improve the education at that stage and more broadly we need greater clarity about when children should be taught to read and be introduced to formal arithmetic in other words when they should start school We also need to be clearer about whether when and how young children should be assessed The book will suggest some answers but it will raise important questions and dilemmas for which we do not as yet have answers Industrial and Organizational Psychology Help the Vulnerable W. Reichman,2014-06-25 Industrial and Organizational Psychology Help the Vulnerable documents a new direction for industrial and organizational psychology The chapters are written by psychologists who have used the methods procedures and theories of industrial and organizational psychology to help the vulnerable people of the world The Contested Idea of South Africa Sabelo J. Ndlovu-Gatsheni,Busani Ngcaweni,2021-11-29 This book reflects on the complex and contested idea of South Africa drawing on a wide range of disciplinary perspectives Ever since the delineation of South Africa as a country the many diverse groups of people contained within its borders have struggled to translate a mere geographical description into the identity of a people Today the new struggles for South Africa and to become South African are inextricably intertwined with complex challenges of transformation xenophobia claims of reverse racism social justice economic justice service delivery and the resurgent decolonization struggles reverberating inside the universities This book covers the genealogy of the idea of South Africa exploring how the country has been conceived of by a broad group of actors including the British Afrikaners diverse African nationalist traditions and new formations such as the Economic Freedom Fighters EFF Black First Land First BLF and student formations Rhodes Must Fall Fees Must Fall Over the course of the book a broad range of themes are covered including identity formation modernity race ethnicity indigeneity autochthony land gender intellectual traditions poetics of South Africanness language popular culture truth and reconciliation and national development planning Concluding with important reflections on how a colonial imaginary can be changed into a free and inclusive postcolonial nation state this book will be an important read for Africanist researchers from
