Comaroff,2015-11-17 As nation states in the Northern Hemisphere experience economic crisis political corruption and racial tension it seems as though they might be evolving into the kind of societies normally associated with the Global South Anthropologists Jean and John Comaroff draw on their long experience of living in Africa to address a range of familiar themes democracy national borders labour and capital and multiculturalism They consider how we might understand these issues by using theory developed in the Global South Challenging our ideas about developed and developing nations Theory from the South provides new insights into key problems of our time Colonial Cinema in Africa Glenn Reynolds,2015-06-08 In recent decades historians and film scholars have intensified their study of colonial cinema in Africa Yet the vastness of the continent the number of European powers involved and irregular record keeping has made uncovering the connections between imagery imperialism and indigenous peoples difficult This volume takes up the challenge tracing production and exhibition patterns to show how motion pictures were introduced on the continent during the Scramble for Africa and the subsequent era of consolidation The author describes how early actualities expeditionary footage ethnographic documentaries and missionary films were made in the African interior and examines the rise of mass black spectatorship While Africans in the first two decades of the 20th century were sidelined as cinema consumers because of colonial restrictions social and political changes in the subsequent interwar period wrought by large scale mining in
