Assessment and Teaching of 21st Century Skills Patrick Griffin,Barry McGaw,Esther Care,2011-10-20 Rapid and seemingly accelerating changes in the economies of developed nations are having a proportional effect on the skill sets required of workers in many new jobs Work environments are often technology heavy while problems are frequently ill defined and tackled by multidisciplinary teams This book contains insights based on research conducted as part of a major international project supported by Cisco Intel and Microsoft It faces these new working environments head on delineating new ways of thinking about 21st century skills and including operational definitions of those skills The authors focus too on fresh approaches to educational assessment and present methodological and technological solutions to the barriers that hinder ICT based assessments of these skills whether in large scale surveys or classrooms Equally committed to defining its terms and providing practical solutions and including international perspectives and comparative evaluations of assessment methodology and policy this volume tackles an issue at the top of most educationalists agendas Psychological perspectives on expertise Guillermo Campitelli,Michael H Connors, Merim Bilalić,David Zachary Hambrick,2015-05-19

Experts are persons who are very knowledgeable about or skillful in a particular area The aim of this Research Topic is to advance knowledge in the understanding of the phenomenon of expertise by putting together different lines of research that directly or indirectly study expertise Herbert Simon's expertise studies initiated two lines of research One is interested in elucidating the cognitive processes underlying expertise and the other investigates how expertise develops These lines of research started with studies comparing experts and novices in chess and then they extended to numerous areas of expertise such as music medical diagnosis sports arts and sciences In the field of judgment and decision making researchers investigate the quality of judgments and decisions of experts in different professions e.g. clinical psychologists medical practitioners judges meteorologists stock brokers Those lines of research explicitly investigate the topic of expertise but there are other research areas that make a substantial contribution to understanding expertise Scholars in language acquisition and in face perception for example investigate cognitive processes and development of expertise in areas in which almost everyone becomes an expert Furthermore skill acquisition research informs in detail about short term cognitive changes that may be important to understand how expertise develops We are interested in original research that advances knowledge in the understanding of decision making cognitive processes and development of expertise in sports intellectual games arts scientific disciplines and professions as well as expertise in cognitive abilities such as perception memory attention language and imagery We are also interested in theoretical articles in any of these areas articles that describe computational or mathematical models of expertise and articles offering a framework that would guide expertise research Articles that offer integrative approaches of some of the areas described above are strongly encouraged The goal of this Research Topic is to produce a hallmark piece of work in the field of expertise which complements and does not overlap with the Neural implementations of expertise Research Topic in Frontiers in Human Neuroscience

Handbook of

Intelligence Sam Goldstein, Dana Princiotta, Jack A. Naglieri, 2014-12-08 Numerous functions cognitive skills and behaviors are associated with intelligence yet decades of research has yielded little consensus on its definition Emerging from often conflicting studies is the provocative idea that intelligence evolved as an adaptation humans needed to keep up with and survive in challenging new environments The Handbook of Intelligence addresses a broad range of issues relating to our cognitive and linguistic past It is the first full length volume to place intelligence in an evolutionary cultural framework tracing the development of the human mind exploring differences between humans and other primates and addressing human thinking and reasoning about its own intelligence and its uses The works of pioneering thinkers from Plato to Darwin Binet to Piaget Luria to Wechsler are referenced to illustrate major events in the evolution of theories of intelligence leading to the current era of multiple intelligences and special education programs In addition it examines evolutionary concepts in areas as diverse as creativity culture neurocognition emotional intelligence and assessment Featured topics include The evolution of the human brain from matter to mind Social competition and the evolution of fluid intelligence Multiple intelligences in the new age of thinking Intelligence as a malleable construct From traditional IQ to second generation intelligence tests The evolution of intelligence including implications for educational programming and policy The Handbook of Intelligence is an essential resource for researchers graduate students clinicians and professionals in developmental psychology assessment testing and evaluation language philosophy personality and social psychology sociology and developmental biology
