Women at the Seven Sister Colleges Joan Marie Johnson,2010 From the end of Reconstruction and into the New South era more than one thousand white southern women attended one of the Seven Sister colleges Vassar Wellesley Smith Mount Holyoke Bryn Mawr Radcliffe and Barnard Joan Marie Johnson looks at how such educations in the North at some of the country s best schools influenced southern women to challenge their traditional gender roles and become active in woman suffrage and other social reforms of the Progressive Era South Attending one of the Seven Sister colleges Johnson argues could transform a southern woman indoctrinated in notions of domesticity and dependence into someone with newfound confidence and leadership skills Many southern students at northern schools imported the values they imbibed at college returning home to found schools of their own women s clubs and woman suffrage associations At the same time during college and after graduation southern women maintained a complicated relationship to home nurturing their regional identity and remaining loyal to the ideals of the Confederacy Johnson explores why students sought a classical liberal arts education how they prepared for entrance examinations and how they felt as southerners on northern campuses She draws on personal writings information gleaned from college publications and records and data on the women s decisions about marriage work children and other life altering concerns In their time the women studied in this book would eventually make up a disproportionately high percentage of the elite southern female leadership This collective biography highlights the important part they played in forging new roles for women especially in social reform education and suffrage Resources
