Welcome to the exciting world of astro-imaging. Your new StarShoot™ Mini CMOS Imaging Camera is capable of capturing professional quality astro-images of many of your favorite celestial objects, or be used as an autoguider to accurately lock onto stars and improve the tracking performance of your mount during a long exposure photograph with another camera. Please read this instruction manual before attempting to use the camera or install the needed software. This manual covers installation of your camera along with basic functions of acquiring images using the included software, as well as autoguiding using PHD2. To get the most out of your camera using 3rd party dedicated astronomy apps coupled with the universal ASCOM driver for the G Series Camera, please consult the software help files and manuals included with the individual software packages available on the market. Some of our favorite programs are mentioned below.
