the psychological social and political aspects of the expression of individual distress and political dissent this book provides a unique analysis of how concepts such as vulnerability and trauma have become institutionalised within politics and society It also offers a critical appraisal of the political and personal implications of these developments and in addition shows how the institutionalisation of the survivor identity represents a diminished view of the human subject and our capacity to achieve progressive political and individual change This book will be of interest to researchers postgraduate and undergraduate students of critical psychology sociology social policy politics social movements and mental health
