Educational Policy Borrowing in China Charlene Tan, 2016-02-22 For over a decade Mainland China has been embarking on an ambitious nation wide education reform New Curriculum Reform for its basic education The reform reflects China's propensity to borrow selected educational policies from elsewhere particularly North America and Europe Chinese scholars have used a local proverb the West wind has overpowered the East wind to describe this phenomenon of looking West But what do we mean by educational policy borrowing from the West What are the educational policies in China's new curriculum reform that are perceived to be borrowed from the West To what extent have the borrowed educational policies in China's new curriculum reform been accepted modified and rejected by the various educational stakeholders How does culture influence the various educational stakeholders in China in interpreting and mediating educational policy borrowing from the West How do the findings of this study on China's education reform inform and add to the existing theories on and approaches to on cross cultural educational policy borrowing This book answers the above questions by critically discussing China s policy borrowing from the West through its current reform for primary and secondary education It presents the latest in depth research findings from a three year empirical study 2013 2015 with school principals teachers students and other educational stakeholders across China This study offers new insights into China s educational policy borrowing from the West and international implications on cross cultural educational transfer for academics policymakers and educators FCI

Secondary School External Examination

Systems Barend Vlaardingerbroek, Neil Taylor, 2009 Summative assessment has been a contentious issue in educational circles for several decades particularly high stakes assessment events which arise at various junctures of the school cycle especially those at the end of it The French Baccalaureat and English A Levels and their numerous clones throughout the francophone and anglophone worlds are household names and represent milestone events in people's lives as their outcomes are principal determinants of young people's future prospects These examinations are external they are devised conducted and processed by agencies outside the schools usually ministerial examination units As such they act as blind arbiters of student achievement providing the proverbial level playing field which ensures the comparability of outcomes In the pyramidal school structures of yesteryear examinations acted as filters regulating the progression of pupils to subsequent tiers of formal education Exit points occurred from primary school level up from where unsuccessful candidates could enter the labour force and or embark on occupationally specific further education and training With the modernisation of the labour market and an ever higher social demand for access to higher levels of formal education the filtering function of examinations at lower levels of schooling has been gradually eroded while burgeoning numbers of students at the upper secondary level have brought about reforms that include curricular diversification and sometimes radical overhauls of terminating assessment systems including the modification and in some instances abandonment of external examinations This edited volume brings together the experiences of twenty examination systems from around the world to show how these dynamic entities have adapted over time to the changing context of schooling Following an introduction by Stephen P Heyneman of World Bank repute there are sixteen chapters presenting Country Case Studies which have been written up under common subheadings thereby highlighting the comparative nature of the work and facilitating cross referencing The subsequent four chapters elaborate on the theme of external examinations beyond national borders including a contribution by the International Baccalaureate Organisation A defining feature of the work is the attention it pays to what it calls the nuts and bolts of external examinations from question setting to grading procedures These are it is argued instrumental in nurturing and maintaining public confidence in external examinations The book will be of immense value to people involved in educational policy studies especially strategic educational planning as well as those directly concerned with formal assessment The work has been written to appeal to a wide audience of informed persons it is accessible to teachers and interested laypeople as well as to academics
