Old Man Takes Her Innocence Rough Reluctant Erotica English Edition:

Reluctant Hearts Karen Wiesner, 2013-05-31 What's a man to do when he's seen too much of life's dark side and suddenly finds himself believing in flesh and blood angels who can heal with a single touch? What's a girl to do when she believes in true love but can't trust the eyes of her own heart? Fall in love reluctantly.

Bitter Tastes Donna M. Campbell, 2016-09 Challenging the conventional understandings of literary naturalism defined primarily through its male writers, Donna M. Campbell examines the ways in which American women writers wrote naturalistic fiction and redefined its principles for their own purposes. Bitter Tastes looks at examples from Edith Wharton, Kate Chopin, Willa Cather, Ellen Glasgow, and others, and positions their work within the naturalistic canon that arose near the turn of the twentieth century. Campbell further places these women writers in a broader context by tracing their relationship to early film, which like naturalism claimed the ability to represent elemental social truths through a documentary method. Women had a significant presence in early film and constituted 40 percent of scenario writers; in many cases, they also served as directors and producers. Campbell explores the features of naturalism that assumed special prominence in women's writing and early film and how the work of these early naturalists diverged from that of their male counterparts in important ways.

Blood Harvest James Axler, 2014-02-28 The cataclysm of nuclear winter transmuted the world into a place both torturous and unforgiving. But there are those with the courage and perseverance to seek out something beyond the merciless life and death struggle of Deathlands. In a treacherous frontier that plays for keeps, staying alive is the best victory.

In Lonely Places Imogen Sara Smith, 2014-01-10 Although film noir is traditionally associated with the mean streets of the Dark City, this volume explores the genre from a new angle, focusing on non-urban settings. Through detailed readings of more than 100 films set in suburbs, small towns, on the road, in the desert borderlands, and the vast empty West, the author investigates the alienation expressed by film noir, pinpointing its motivation in the conflict between desires for escape, autonomy, and freedom and fears of loneliness, exile, and dissolution. Through such films as Out of the Past, They Live by Night, and A Touch of Evil, this critical study examines how film noir reflected radical changes in the physical and social landscapes of postwar America, defining the genre's contribution to the eternal debate between the values of individualism and community.

Melancholy Memories of a Tortured Soul William Garrett, Melancholy Memories of a Tortured Soul is an unrelenting plunge into life's many morbid oppressions. It's a brooding decline into true loneliness. An excursion with deep contemplating moments of intense uncertainty. Twelve isolated individuals whose lives have endured continual hardships are faced with one last task: An agonizing trek into madness. Yet standing in their way are three brutally tormented demons. Their souls already condemned to hell, will judge over the night's grisly endeavor. For every great accomplishment, there is its grim guardian slithering in the darkness. Yet Beckett didn't know that along the way, he would find something else. Something that was relinquished, had miraculously been found. And he didn't know anything about her, the girl with the frazzled blue windbreaker and dingy white t
