Politics and the Life Sciences ,1993 The Matrix of Stem Cell Research Christine Hauskeller,Arne Manzeschke,Anja Pichl,2019-07-25 Stem cell research has been a problematic endeavour For the past twenty years it has attracted moral controversies in both the public and the professional sphere The research involves not only laboratories clinics and people but ethics industries jurisprudence and markets Today it contributes to the development of new therapies and affects increasingly many social arenas The matrix approach introduced in this book offers a new understanding of this science in its relation to society The contributions are multidisciplinary and intersectional illustrating how agency and influence between science and society go both ways Conceptually this volume presents a situated and reflexive approach for philosophy and sociology of the life sciences The practices that are part of stem cell research are dispersed and the concepts that tie them together are tenuous there are persistent problems with the validation of findings and the ontology of the stem cell is elusive The array of applications shapes a growing bioeconomy that is dependent on patient donations of tissues and embryos consumers and industrial support In this volume it is argued that this research now denotes not a specific field but a flexible web of intersecting practices discourses and agencies To capture significant parts of this complex reality this book presents recent findings from researchers who have studied in depth aspects of this matrix of stem cell research This volume presents state of the art examinations from senior and junior scholars in disciplines from humanities and laboratory research to various social sciences highlighting particular normative and epistemological intersections The book will appeal to scholars as well as wider audiences interested in developments in life science and society interactions The novel matrix approach and the accessible case studies make this an excellent resource for science and society courses Location, Transport and Land-Use Yupo Chan,2005-12-05 1 Theme and focus Few books are available to integrate the models for facilities siting transportation and land use Employing state of the art quantitative models and case studies this book would guide the siting of such facilities as transportation terminals warehouses nuclear power plants military bases landfills emergency shelters state parks and industrial plants The book also shows the use of statistical tools for forecasting and analyzing implications of land use decisions The idea is that la use on a map is necessarily a consequence of individual and often conflicting siting decisions over time Since facilities often develop to form a community these decisions are interrelated spatially i e they need to be accessible to one another via the transportation system It is our thesis that a common methodological procedure exists to analyze all these spatial temporal constructs While there are several monographs and texts on subjects related to this book s this volume is unique in that it integrates existing practical and theoretical works on facility location transportation and land use Instead of dealing with individual facility location transportation or the resulting land use pattern individually it provides the underlying principles that are behind these types of models Particularly of interest is the emphasis on counter intuitive decisions that often escape our minds unless deliberate steps of analysis are taken Oriented toward the fundamental principles of infrastructure management the book transcends the traditional engineering and planning disciplines where the main concerns are often exclusively either physical design fiscal socioeconomic or political considerations
