

Production and Operations Management Case Studies

Case 1: Product Development Risks

You have the opportunity to invest INR 100 billion for your company to develop a jet engine for commercial aircrafts. Development will span 5 years. The final product costing Rs. 500 million / unit could reach a sales potential, eventually of Rs. 2500 billion. The new engine can be placed in service 5 years from now, but only if it qualifies four years from now for certification clearing commercial use and only if it meets America's Federal Aviation Administration's (FAA) ever tightening standards for noise reduction. Certification also has to be obtained from India's Director General of Civil Aviation (DGCA). There is competition from world-class manufacturers like Pratt and Whitney and Rolls Royce who are developing competing engines. If you decide to proceed with the project, you must also determine where the new engines will be produced and develop the manufacturing facilities. If you decline to proceed, your company could invest its resources elsewhere and based on its track record, get attractive returns.

- (a) What would be your line of action?
- (b) In case of lengthy product design and development time, what kinds of risks are there?

Case 2: Conflict of Interests

The GM (Works) has problems with manufacturing budgets, meeting cost reduction targets, and dealing with new products manufacturing schedules. When an in-depth interview (non-directive type) was conducted between the GM (Works) and the Chairman of the Company, the GM (Works) explained that many things are happening in the Company about which he is ignorant, particularly the preparation, new product integration, etc. He agrees to the view that the Company is interested in high-growth and high-profit, but he has never been given an opportunity to review his own scheme of things and explain to the top management. The production culture of the company has never been assessed whereas the stringent rules are being directed by the finance and personnel departments. And sometimes, show cause notices are being served to supervisors and senior employees. The Company is introducing new products without assessing the capability of the manufacturing system and the resources.

- (a) Under the above situation, if you are asked to work as a consultant to show the perspectives to the Board of Management, what action plans would you suggest?
- (b) Does Business Process Re-engineering (BPR) help in situations like these?

Case 3: Project Delays

The Assam Gas Cracker Project conceived as part of the Assam Accord signed in 1985 is yet to see the light of the day. It has been plagued by a host of problems starting from location to economic viability. Originally planned at Tengakhat, it was later shifted to a place called Lepetkata. The project is now being implemented by GAIL (a Government of India enterprise) as the lead promoter (70% share) with another public enterprise OIL (20% share) and the Government of Assam as minor annual reports Case Studies in Management and Business (Volume 2) (UUM Press) Rosliza Mat Zin, 2015-01-01

 Institute for Business and Management Research IMBRe Universiti Utara Malaysia is pleased to extend this book which features a compilation of business management case studies. The aims of this second volume of Case Studies in Management and Business remain unchanged from the first volume. Realizing the importance of using case study as one of the student centered learning approach, this book is designed to enhance learning and teaching activities by providing a collection of teaching cases which could be used both for the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. This book includes a relatively wide scope of work including marketing, business policy, IT and Islamic finance. However, the field is still in the field of management in general. The target audience is an academician and management students. In general, this book meets the scope of management. It is also suitable for an academician and students but may not be appropriate in using for certain course because of its scope is geared to specific disciplines. This book has the potential especially if the university lecturers took it to be discussed in their classes. There is least amount of case use Malaysia environment in the market. The cases highlighted also are unique and not similar to the other cases. Furthermore, this book is using a real case in the beginning especially in our country. In addition, this book is accompanied by teaching notes for each case. These teaching notes are available to instructors only. First to fifth case is ongoing for all cases involving the issue of whether the marketing or the service industry. The second and third cases involving issues on marketing in the nutritional industry. Consequently, the third to fifth case involves a service industry that highlight on a unique issues within the companies concerned. The sixth case issues on muamalat are not so related to other cases. Since each case is developed by different authors, writing style and technique seem different and may disturb the concentration of the readers. The needs for local and contextual business case studies motivate most of the local case writers to write and compile teaching cases that are interesting and relevant to contemporary business situations and decisions particularly in Malaysia. Business Communication: Concepts, Cases, and Applications P. D. Chaturvedi, 2011. The second edition of Business Communication Concepts Cases and Applications builds on the key strengths of the first edition: clear writing style and comprehensive content by updating the material to reflect the latest research and technological developments in business communication and presenting it in a style that engages the reader.
