Petuchowski, 2012-02-01 When Jews and Christians Meet captures the present state of the Christian Jewish Dialogue in which it is taken for granted that good will has been established and that Christians and Jews have a great deal in common One can now appreciate the basic differences which remain between Judaism and Christianity without fear of giving offense With this assumption a number of Jewish and Christian scholars address several questions For example they ask what the future goals of Judaeo Christian studies should be and how the ecumenical aspirations of leading Christian and Jewish theologians can be translated into practice on a level which can be appreciated by the men and women in the pews of synagogues and churches In addition to such theoretical considerations the volume offers illustrations of how Bible study can be undertaken in both the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament by Jewish and Christian scholars addressing passages hitherto considered controversial with both a commitment to objective scholarship and a rootedness in their respective religious traditions Jeremiahs prophecy about the New Covenant and some of the Apostle Pauls statements about the Jews furnish the material for that joint enterprise Constitutional Conscience H. Jefferson Powell,2008-09-15 While many recent observers have accused American judges especially Supreme Court justices of being too driven by politics and ideology others have argued that judges are justified in using their positions to advance personal views Advocating a different approach one that eschews ideology but still values personal perspective H Jefferson Powell makes a compelling case for the centrality of individual conscience in constitutional decision making Powell argues that almost every controversial decision has more than one constitutionally defensible resolution In such cases he goes on to contend the language and ideals of the Constitution require judges to decide in good faith exercising what Powell calls the constitutional virtues candor intellectual honesty humility about the limits of constitutional adjudication and willingness to admit that they do not have all the answers Constitutional Conscience concludes that the need for these qualities in judges as well as lawyers and citizens is implicit in our constitutional practices and that without them judicial review would forfeit both its own integrity and the credibility of the courts themselves By the People, U.
