Points to Ponder

Good patient service is important to most industries that serve the consumer, and many primary care practices are no exception. Some suggestions are as follows:

- Ask your fee friends and colleagues to send you a list of their best billing practices. Share the information with your staff. Collectives often are an opportunity to compare and contrast if the practice feels that insurance payment is a problem or just one of a number of problems regarding the practice's flow.
- Conduct a periodic assessment of your staff's understanding of the patient's insurance plan and how the patient's insurance plan may be verified and without delay.
- Agree with patients the process of filling out a patient information form so that there are no errors and complete updates and answer the patient's questions about your office's Medical Billing Process (MBP). Remember, it is important to use the information when the NPP is up.
- Regularly update your insurance claim data on the third-party payer so that the information is accurate in a timely manner on behalf of the patient.
- As an insurance claim, you should be able to print complete billing and account statements for patients. However, no one can help patients. All business or clinical issues involving the patient should be addressed to the patient's personal information correctly.
