London Calling, 1944      What Kind of Poem? 1 Brian Moses, David Orme, 1999 The Spotlight on Poetry series has been devised and written to meet the specific requirements of the National Literacy Strategy for pupils at KS1 and KS2 and Scotland P1 P7 These Teacher s Notes match the poems to the National Literacy Framework and offer a range of teaching ideas The selections meets the range of objectives for poetry and the National Literacy Strategy as specified in the Literacy Framework The poems have been put together by David Orme and Brian Moses two well known children s poets The What Kind of Poem selection features examples of various poetic forms including haiku shape poems performance poems chants and sonnets The poems have been carefully chosen to appeal to the age ranges There are 3 levels in each strand corresponding to KS1 What Kind of Poem 1 Years 3 4 2 Years 5 6 3 Literacy selections include a Big Book for shared work and six readers for guided and independent work The readers contain all the material in the Big Book plus some additional material e g extra poems or full versions of poems that appear as extracts in the Big Book Each level will be accompanied by Teacher s Notes which match the poems to the NLF      The Collected Poems Walter Donway, 2021-11-15 Poems from three volumes of Walter Donway s poetry are collected here Sections of the book start with the title page of the volume but the page numbering is consecutive His poetry is in the Great Tradition as he explains in his introduction That tradition as old as poetry itself in English recognizes that the defining characteristic of verse is metrical form All great poetry written in English has such a form an underlying pattern of stressed and unstressed syllables against which the poet achieves most specifically poetic effects by means of expressive variations Rhyme of course is another specifically poetic effect and the one most beloved by readers but not the essence of poetry For example blank verse extensively employed by Shakespeare is unrhymed iambic pentameter Free verse which dominates poetry today is the abandonment of metrical form in the name of expressive freedom In fact free verse is abandonment of poetry Poetry shares many resources with prose word choice tone rhythm simile metaphor imagery allusion and narrative for example but not meter Meter guides the speaking voice in creating the poem which exists only when spoken aloud or in the reader s mind because its essence is inflection of the speech between metrical regularity and artful variations Donway s introduction looks at this issue in more depth and this collection illustrates it from cover to cover Another development in contemporary poetry is almost exclusive focus on the lyric a brief burst of emotion that is a minor form originally intended to be accompanied by the lyre Over centuries of poetry in English the dominant forms were the ode the elegy the drama the ballad and the epic In other words the longer forms tended to dominate Certainly too there were shorter forms including the sonnet for example and the lyric This volume tries to buck that trend a little You will find a couple of one act plays in verse some ballads a kind of short story in blank verse a verse epic of the great era of American railroad building and what might be called lyrical ballads in the manner of Samuel Taylor Coleridge There are sonnets too a form rarely published today Donway writes in his introduction I have achieved no reputation as a poet but not for want of mentors supporters and colleagues I mentioned Judson Jerome His work actually came to my attention through my high school English teacher Dorothy Haymann herself a constant inspiration and support My brother Roger Donway a fine poet when he has picked up the pen has been my constant soul mate in discovery and reading of poetry as in so many other things He also was editor of my first couple of volumes of poetry I have enjoyed warm camaraderie in several poetry workshops one in Southampton one in East Hampton and have benefited from criticism and encouragement The audience for poetry today is small enough so that individual names stand out over time certainly in my world of poetry Among reviewers John Joseph Enright a talented poet has been unfailing in his intelligent reviews Sherrie Gossett an editor at The New Individualist featured a new poem of mine in many issues of that magazine I have been honored by opportunities to read at the famous Canio s Books in Sag Harbor Tammy Nuzzo Morgan a celebrated Suffolk County poet including Poet Laureate brought me on as co host of a public TV show on the arts especially poetry in Suffolk County Constant appreciation from readers like Alexander Cohen Laurie Denault Dow and Donna Paris has given me energy to keep writing Other fans on social media even if I have not mentioned them are always greeted with a smile when they show up And a precious few every so often become regular readers of my work

What Kind of Poem? 3 Brian Moses, David Orme, 1999-09-20 The Spotlight on Poetry series has been devised and written to meet the specific requirements of the National Literacy Strategy for pupils at KS1 and KS2 and Scotland P1 P7 These Teacher s Notes match the poems to the National Literacy Framework and offer a range of teaching ideas
