Poetry Translating as Expert Action Francis R. Jones, 2011 Poetry is a highly valued form of human expression and poems are challenging texts to translate For both reasons people willingly work long and hard to translate them for little pay but potentially high personal satisfaction This book shows how experienced poetry translators translate poems and bring them to readers and how they not only shape new poems but also help communicate images of the source culture It uses cognitive and sociological translation studies methods to analyse real data most of it from two contrasting source countries the Netherlands and Bosnia Case studies including think aloud studies analyse how translators translate poems In interviews translators explain why and how they translate And a 17 year survey of a country s poetry translation output explores how translators work within networks of other people and texts publishing teams fellow translators source culture enthusiasts and translation readers and critics In mapping the whole sweep of poetry translators action from micro cognitive to macro social this book gives the first translation studies overview of poetry translating since the 1970s      One Poem in Search of a Translator Eugenia Loffredo, Manuela Perteghella, 2009

Translation is a journey a journey undertaken by the text hopping around the world and mischievously border crossing from one language to another from one culture to another For a translator this journey can become a truly creative engagement with the otherness of the source text an experience of self discovery leading to understanding and enrichment and ultimately towards a new text This singular literary experiment intends to magnify the idiosyncrasy of this translational journey In the process translation reveals itself as an increasingly creative activity rather than simply a linguistic transfer This volume consists of twelve translations of one poem Les Fen tres by the French poet Apollinaire The translators embarking on this project all from different backgrounds and working contexts poets professional translators academics visual artists were asked to engage with the inherent multimodality of this poem inspired by Robert Delaunay's Les Fen tres series of paintings The result is a kaleidoscopic diversity of approaches and final products Each translation is accompanied by self reflective commentary which provides insight into the complex process and experience of translation enticing the reader to join this journey too

Translation: Theory and Practice in Dialogue Antoinette Fawcett, 2010-05-27 This exciting new book explores the present relevance of translation theory to practice A range of perspectives provides both current theoretical insights into the relevance of theory to translation and also offers first hand experiences of applying appropriate strategies and methods to the practice and description of translation The individual chapters in the book explore theoretical pronouncements and practical observations grouped in topics that include theory and creativity translation and its relation with linguistics gender issues and more The book features four parts it firstly deals with how theories from both within translation studies and from other disciplines can contribute to our understanding of the practice of translation secondly how theory can be reconceptualized from examining translation in practice thirdly reconceptualizing practice from theory and finally Eastern European and Asian perspectives of how translation theory and practice inform one another The chapters all show examples from theoretical and practical as well as pedagogical issues ensuring appeal for a wide readership This book will appeal to advanced level students researchers and academics in translation studies

Women and Early Modern Cultures of Translation Hilary Brown, 2022 Women and Early Modern Cultures of Translation Beyond the Female Tradition is a major new intervention in research on early modern translation and will be an essential point of reference for anyone interested in the history of women translators Research on women translators has often focused on early modern England the example of early modern England has been taken as the norm for the rest of the continent and has shaped research on gender and translation more generally This book brings a new European perspective to the field by introducing the case of Germany It draws attention to forty women who can be identified as translators in sixteenth and seventeenth century Germany and shows how their work does not fit easily into traditional narratives about marginalization and subversiveness The study uses the example of Germany to argue against reading the work of translating women primarily through the lens of gender and to challenge claims about the existence of a female translation tradition which transcends the boundaries of time and place Broadening our perspective to include Germany provides a more nuanced and informed account of the position of women within European translation cultures and forces us to rethink gender as a category of analysis in translation history The book makes the case for a new woman interrogated approach to translation history to borrow a concept from Carol Maier and as such it will provide a blueprint for future work in the area Provided by publisher

Translating across Sensory and Linguistic Borders Madeleine Campbell, Ricarda Vidal, 2018-12-08 This book analyses intersemiotic translation where the translator works across sign systems and cultural boundaries Challenging Roman Jakobson's seminal definitions it examines how a poem may be expressed as dance a short story as an olfactory experience or a film as a painting This emergent process opens up a myriad of synaesthetic possibilities for both translator and target audience to experience form and sense beyond the limitations of words The editors draw together theoretical and creative contributions from translators artists performers academics and curators who have explored intersemiotic translation in their practice The contributions offer a practitioner's perspective on this rapidly evolving interdisciplinary field which spans semiotics cognitive poetics psychoanalysis and transformative learning theory The book underlines the intermedial and multimodal nature of perception and expression where semiotic boundaries are considered fluid and heuristic rather than ontological It will be of particular interest to practitioners scholars and students of modern foreign languages linguistics literary and cultural studies interdisciplinary humanities visual arts theatre and the performing arts
