Technology: My Daily Addiction

When the word technology is heard, most people think of iPhones and MacBooks. However, technology is anything that is able to complete a task faster and/or easier. Due to recent technology, people everywhere are always glued to their smartphones tweeting or updating statuses. Technology plays a major role in today's society in other ways too. It is almost impossible in this modern age for one to get by without technology. Personally, I am constantly checking what my friends are up to on twitter, facebook, or some other social media site. Researching in order to complete my school assignments also requires technology that I use frequently. Using the dishwasher to wash dishes and driving the car to get to different places are other examples of how I use technology. I use technology in my daily life to stay connected with friends, to do schoolwork, and just to accomplish everyday tasks.

Keeping up with friends is an example of how I use technology daily. I check my facebook and twitter accounts often to see what my friends are up to. Statuses inform me about my friends' lives, and the stuff I post lets other people stay updated on my life. Even though I may not be close friends with all the people on these sites, I am still able to see what is happening with them. Another social media I use is Instagram, where users only upload pictures. I stay connected through the pictures the people I follow post. Although not as regularly, I use Skype and Qovoo as well. Skype and Qovoo allow me to video chat with others. This is good for keeping up with long distance friendships. I keep up with my friends
