and technological sophistication of identification systems have been nothing less than revolutionary Since 2000 over 60 developing countries have established national ID programs Digital technology particularly biometrics such as fingerprints and iris scans has dramatically expanded the capabilities of these programs Individuals can now be uniquely identified and reliably authenticated against their claimed identities By enabling governments to work more effectively and transparently identification is becoming a tool for accelerating development progress Not only is provision of legal identity for all a target under the Sustainable Development Goals but this book shows how it is also central to achieving numerous other SDG targets Yet challenges remain Identification systems can fail to include the poor leaving them still unable to exercise their rights access essential services or fully participate in political and economic life The possible erosion of privacy and the misuse of personal data especially in countries that lack data privacy laws or the capacity to enforce them is another challenge Yet another is ensuring that investments in identification systems deliver a development payoff There are all too many examples where large expenditures sometimes supported by donor governments or agencies appear to have had little impact

Identification Revolution Can Digital ID be Harnessed for Development offers a balanced perspective on this new area covering both the benefits and the risks of the identification revolution as well as pinpointing opportunities to mitigate those risks

Gray, 2016-10-26. All recent books on international social work mention Africa only briefly, and few engage with the broader field of development studies. This book focuses solely on the unique African context, engaging with issues relating to social work and development more broadly, thus enabling a deeper examination and more complex and nuanced picture to emerge. Unlike most academic works, this book highlights multiple practitioner voices with authors or co-authors that have recently been or are currently practising social workers. As an edited book, it draws from both academic research as well as lived practice experience, supported by strong theoretical positioning and guidance in introductory chapters drawing on African literature wherever possible. Looking at case studies from Lesotho, Botswana, Kenya, Zimbabwe, Ethiopia, Namibia, Uganda, Nigeria, Kenya, South Africa, Rwanda, Zambia, and Tanzania, and covering established areas of practice such as child protection, working with older people, working with people with disabilities, mental health, and mainstream services targeting women, as well as emerging areas of developmental social work practice such as humanitarian assistance in post-conflict situations, work with immigrants and refugees, and the training of community-based workers, this book takes a future-oriented perspective that aims to move beyond well-worn critiques to envision constructive and sustainable futures for social work and social development in Africa from a critical perspective. Provisional Measures Issued by International Courts and Tribunals Fulvio Maria Palombino, Roberto Virzo, Giovanni Zarra, 2020-12-02. This book makes a significant contribution to the comprehension of the law and practice of provisional measures issued by international courts and tribunals, including international commercial arbitration. After having analyzed the common features of provisional measures, it provides an overview of the peculiarities of these orders within the context of different international proceedings, e.g., the ICJ, the ITLOS, the CJEU, the ICC, human rights courts, and investment arbitration. In this regard, the book is valuable in offering a broad and rigorous comparative analysis between the various forms of provisional measures Owing to its original cross cutting and case driven approach the book will be an essential tool for both scholars and practitioners dealing with the law of provisional measures in international adjudication Indeed this book will be an important novelty in international law libraries due to the broad range of regimes scrutinized and to a detailed analysis of the general trends within the contemporary law of provisional measures Fulvio Maria Palombino is Professor of International Law in the Department of Law at the University of Naples Federico II Naples Italy Roberto Virzo is Associate Professor of International Law in the Department of Law Economics Management and Quantitative Methods DEMM at the University of Sannio Benevento Italy Giovanni Zarra is Adjunct Professor of International Law in the Department of Law at the University of Naples Federico II Naples Italy Applications of Space Communications Technology to Distance Education United Nations.
