Production Scheduling for the Process Industries Peter L. King,Mac Jacob,Noel Peberdy,2023-06-13 This book is aimed at manufacturing and planning managers who struggle to bring a greater degree of stability and more effective use of assets to their operations not realizing the degree to which production scheduling affects those objectives It has been reported that 75% of the problems on the manufacturing floor are caused by activities outside the plant floor Poor production scheduling strategies and systems are often the biggest contributors to the 75% The book explains in detail that no scheduling strategy and especially no transition to a different and better scheduling strategy will succeed without strong commitment and guidance from senior leadership Leadership must understand their active role in the transition that people will feel uncomfortable and even threatened by change and that they will need to be measured by different standards Effective scheduling requires that following the schedule and production to plan is more important than trying to maximize each day s throughput The book explains the advantages of a structured regularly repeating schedule how it can increase throughput right size inventory based on cycles and variabilities and therefore make it more usable and improve customer delivery It will explain the trade offs between throughput inventory and delivery performance how those trade offs are actually decided in production scheduling and how an appropriate scheduling strategy can make the trade offs and their ramifications visible It discusses several popular structured scheduling concepts their similarities and differences to allow the readers to decide which might fit best in their environments In addition the authors discuss what makes an appropriate scheduling software system and why a package designed for structured scheduling offers capabilities well beyond the Excel workbooks used by many companies and how it offers much more design capability and ease of use than the finite scheduling modules in SAP or Oracle Finally the authors offer a proven roadmap for implementation critical success factors necessary to achieve the full potential and give examples of operations that have done this well In addition a guide for leaders and managers post implementation is provided to help them fully exploit the advantages of a structured repeating scheduling strategy IP Networking over Next-Generation Satellite Systems Linghang Fan, Haitham Cruickshank, Zhili Sun, 2007-12-19 With the boom of Internet IP based applications such as WWW and multimedia have been an essential part of our life and there is an ever increasing demand for accessing high speed Internet services anywhere and anytime This trend unavably has huge impact on the design of the next generation satellite systems In addition with its broadcasting nature and global coverage satellite systems also can play an important role in the next generation Internet For example satellite systems can be a good driver for the deployment of IPv6 in the Internet and can provide a fast way to reach end users because they do not rely on construction of a high speed terrestrial networks Thus satellites have the potential to bridge significant gaps in global connectivity issues To the naive observer IP over satellite problem has been solved in the past and does not have any new challenges However recent satellite research in several EU projects show that there are still many unresolved issues such as efficient deployment of IPv6 over satellites interworking with other access technologies such as WLAN and WiMax QoS provisioning over multi segment networks including satellites security and On Board Processing satellites usage for challenging applications such as IP multicast over satellites The papers in this book were selected from the International Workshop on IP Networking over Next generation Satellite Systems INNSS 07 which was held on July 5 2007 in Budapest Hungary as a part of the 16th IST Mobile and Wireless Communications Summit conference Proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Computational and Bio Engineering S.
