THE RECEPTIONIST

AN EDUCATION
AT THE NEW YORKER

JANET GROTH

"Executive . . . Groth is exuberantly frank about her young self, fresh from the corn belt, discovering sex and the city through two vanished worlds: The New Yorker of editor William Shawn and bohemian Greenwich Village."

flagship magazine of Johnson Publishing Founded in 1945 by John H Johnson it still maintains the highest global circulation of any African American focused magazine All Deliberate Speed Charles M. Wollenberg,2023-04-28 In All Deliberate Speed Segregation and Exclusion in California Schools 1853 1975 the author explores the long complex history of racial integration and exclusion in California s public schools Beginning with a parent s hopeful statement in 1872 about the positive impact of school integration on racial equality the book examines the enduring struggle to make that vision a reality This historical study delves into California s educational system and its resistance to integration as well as the ways in which schools and courts have both facilitated and obstructed progress toward racial equality The author aims to provide a usable history to frame contemporary debates on issues like busing and ethnic balance within the broader context of past racial and educational dynamics The book also considers California s unique demographics and educational landscape underscoring the state s role as a battleground for integration policies due to its diverse ethnic composition The state has a significant population of minorities including people of Asian Latin American Polynesian Black and Native American descent who have historically faced varying levels of discrimination in education Unlike studies focused on Eastern states this book highlights California s distinct educational challenges and offers a regional perspective on national integration issues The narrative centers on how each ethnic group navigated these challenges actively seeking ways to leverage the educational system for social mobility while facing resistance that led them to turn to the courts for justice Despite the author s personal belief in integration the book refrains from presenting the subject as a clear moral dichotomy Instead it examines the varied motivations behind both integrationist and segregationist stances revealing that intentions range from promoting equal opportunity to preserving community heritage or opposing enforced assimilation The study frames California s educational history as a conflict between universalist ideals of national values and the particularist values of local communities By viewing the ongoing battles for school desegregation as a reflection of deeply rooted beliefs in the power of education and the judiciary the book ultimately underscores the enduring faith that Americans place in these institutions to shape a more equitable society This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1976 Children, Race, and Power Gerald Markowitz,David Rosner,2013-12-16 A portrait of two important black social scientists and a broader history of race relations this important work captures the vitality and chaos of post war politics in New York recasting the story of the civil rights movement Cast of Characters: Wolcott Gibbs, E. B. White, James Thurber, and the Golden Age of The New Yorker Thomas Vinciguerra,2015-11-09 Exuberant elegantly conjures an evocative group dynamic Sam Roberts New York Times From its birth in 1925 to the early days of the Cold War The New Yorker slowly but surely took hold as the country s most prestigious entertaining and informative general interest periodical In Cast of Characters Thomas Vinciguerra paints a portrait of the magazine's cadre of charming wisecracking driven troubled brilliant writers and editors He introduces us to Wolcott Gibbs theater critic all around wit and author of an infamous 1936 parody of Time magazine We meet the demanding and eccentric founding editor Harold Ross who would routinely tell his underlings I'm firing you because you are not a genius and who once mailed a pair of his underwear to Walter Winchell who had accused him of preferring to go bare bottomed under his slacks Joining the cast are the mercurial blind James Thurber a brilliant cartoonist and wildly inventive fabulist and the enigmatic E B White an incomparable prose stylist and Ross's favorite son who married The New Yorker's formidable fiction editor Katharine Angell Then there is the dashing St Clair McKelway who was married five times and claimed to have no fewer than twelve personalities but was nonetheless a superb reporter and managing editor alike Many of these characters became legends in their own right but Vinciguerra also shows how as a group The New Yorker's inner circle brought forth a profound transformation in how life was perceived interpreted written about and published in America Cast of Characters may be the most revealing and entertaining book yet about the unique personalities who built what Ross called not a magazine but a movement
