The Purloined Letter and Other Stories Edgar Allan Poe, 2017-12-29 The Purloined Letter is a short story by American author Edgar Allan Poe. It is the third of his three detective stories featuring the fictional C Auguste Dupin, the other two being The Murders in the Rue Morgue and The Mystery of Marie Rogot. These stories are considered to be important early forerunners of the modern detective story. It first appeared in the literary annual The Gift for 1845/1844 and was soon reprinted in numerous journals and newspapers. The unnamed narrator is discussing with the famous Parisian amateur detective C Auguste Dupin some of his most celebrated cases when they are joined by the Prefect of the Police, a man known as G. The Prefect has a case he would like to discuss with Dupin: A letter has been stolen from the boudoir of an unnamed woman by the unscrupulous Minister D. It is said to contain compromising information. D was in the room, saw the letter, and switched it for a letter of no importance. He has been blackmailing his victim. The Prefect makes two deductions with which Dupin does not disagree. The contents of the letter have not been revealed as this would have led to certain circumstances that have not arisen. Therefore, Minister D still has the letter in his possession. The ability to produce the letter at a moment's notice is almost as important as actual possession of the letter. Therefore, he must have the letter close at hand. The Prefect says that he and his police detectives have searched the Ministerial hotel where D stays and have found nothing. They checked behind the wallpaper and under the carpets. His men have examined the tables and chairs with magnifying glasses and then probed the cushions with needles but have found no sign of interference; the letter is not hidden in these places. Dupin asks the Prefect if he knows what he is seeking, and the Prefect reads off a minute description of the letter, which Dupin memorizes. The Prefect then bids them good day.
