

For only $19.95, we're getting through college the easy way.

We were never what you'd call great students; always trying to find ways to make our load a little easier.

But then we got smart. We bought a Casio FX-81 scientific calculator. Now we whiz through the square roots and logarithms that used to keep us up all night. Those same sine, cosine and tangents that we sweated through Freshman year are a piece of cake now.

Because the Casio FX-81 does 30 scientific functions, has true algebraic logic, an independent memory, factorials, and performs six levels of parenthesis at the same time.

So our Casio can take us through basic algebra all the way to advanced trigonometry, without even changing the batteries more than once a term.

And if we go on to graduate school, Casio has plenty of easy ways to get us through. They have credit card size scientific calculators, programmables, calculators with date and timekeeping functions, and units that do every imaginable function, all in that low Casio price range.

So thanks to Casio, we've got all these classes covered.

Now all we need is a Casio for our French class.

Glass Ceilings and 100-Hour Couples Karine S. Moe, Dianna J. Shandy, 2010-02-25 When significant numbers of college educated American women began in the early twenty first century to leave paid work to become stay at home mothers an emotionally charged national debate erupted Karine Moe and Dianna Shandy a professional economist and an anthropologist respectively decided to step back from the sometimes overheated rhetoric around the so called mommy wars They wondered what really inspired women to opt out and they wanted to gauge the phenomenon's genuine repercussions Glass Ceilings and 100 Hour Couples is the fruit of their investigation a rigorous accessible and sympathetic reckoning with this hot button issue in contemporary life Drawing on hundreds of interviews from around the country original survey research and national labor force data Moe and Shandy refocus the discussion of women who opt out from one where they are the object of scrutiny to one where their aspirations and struggles tell us about the far broader swath of American women who continue to juggle paid work and family Moe and Shandy examine the many pressures that influence a woman's decision to resign reduce or reorient her career These include the mismatch between child care options and workplace demands the fact that these women married men with demanding careers the professionalization of stay at home motherhood and broad failures in public policy But Moe and Shandy are equally attentive to the resilience of women in the face of life decisions that might otherwise threaten their sense of self worth Moe and Shandy find for instance that women who have downsized their careers stress the value of social networks of running with a pack of smart women who've also chosen to emphasize motherhood over paid work

Why are Expectations of Grievance Resolution Systems Not Met? Penelope Janet Webster, 2010 There is an increasing societal awareness of the negative impact of bullying in the workplace with some cases having dire outcomes for both individuals and organisations Researchers of workplace bullying have highlighted the lack of effective grievance resolution systems in organisations Some claim that appealing to the organisation's grievance resolution system can subsequently be a further traumatising event for the target of bullying behaviour The primary aim of this research is to gain a fresh understanding of why expectations of organisational grievance resolution systems are often not met in order to assist organisations to design and implement processes that meet the reasonable expectations of participants
