

The background of the entire image is a desolate, post-apocalyptic landscape. In the foreground, a human skull and a long bone lie on a sandy, yellowish ground. In the middle ground, a dead, black, leafless tree stands to the right of the center. Behind the tree and to the left, several tall, thin, grey stone pillars or obelisks are scattered across the landscape. The sky is a pale, hazy yellow, suggesting a bright but dusty or smoky atmosphere. The overall color palette is dominated by yellows, greys, and browns, creating a somber and bleak mood.

The Age of Steel ,1891 The Iron Age ,1928 Railway Age ,1928 The (Coming) Age of Thresholding S.A. Erickson,2013-03-14 As a philosopher Stephen Erickson considers himself a messenger of sorts and the message he is delivering is an important and groundbreaking one He convincingly argues that we are entering into a new historical moment a period which will only be properly defined and named by those who come after us as were the Renaissance and the Enlightenment Erickson predicts a failure and eventual breakdown of traditional values and institutions resulting in a dramatic change in our understanding of human life This he illustrates with clear examples from contemporary political economic and religious circumstances To lessen the impact of this dramatic changeover which will be initially experienced as upheaval and global anxiety Erickson argues that we must do all we can to come into this new era which he has called The Age of Thresholding with a better understanding of our past and present Only then can the message our future holds be properly received and understood Many have asked why and when our century s values came into being and why they have been sustained in the manner in which they have These are legitimate historical questions and I hope to supply some answers But other questions should be directed toward our future Over what threshold might we be crossing and what will have been ventured What will have been gained and what will be left behind from The Coming Age of Thresholding The Railway Age ,1904 The Electrical Age ,1896 Eclectic Magazine, and Monthly Edition of the Living Age John Holmes Agnew,Walter Hilliard Bidwell, Henry T. Mores Catholici, Or, Ages of Faith Kenelm Henry Digby,1846 Essays at the End of the Age Jay Trott,2007-01-10 Essays at the End of the Age examines the rise and fall of nihilism in the context of the cycles of intellectual history and suggests ways to go beyond it The modern era began with Descartes and the attempt to use the cogito to obtain a clear understanding of transcendent being Unfortunately the cogito led to nothingness through its resistance to constructs of being Then Kant attempted to synthesize nothingness with being in the transcendental aesthetic with mixed results Finally Nietzsche used the power of nothingness itself or nihilism to negate any concept of being for the sake of the will to power But nihilism led to the same nothingness as the cogito did since nihilism too was based on resistance The limitations of the superman became evident through the art and culture that reflected his negative ideal of absolute resistance to the good and yet nihilism also indicates the end of philosophy and its attempt to describe transcendent value and the good of happiness The superman is dead and philosophy appears to be dead as well The question now is whether it is possible to go beyond nihilism and find the identity purpose and meaning that the human spirit craves Essays at the End of the Age uses illustrations from literature music science and sacred texts to show why the superman failed to obtain happiness and to point the way to a new mode of being The Farmer's Dictionary; Or, a Cyclopedia of Agriculture John Marius Wilson,1850
