

The poster features two large, close-up portraits of the main characters, Emile Hirsch and Stephen Dorff, at the top. Hirsch is on the left with a serious expression, and Dorff is on the right with a more intense, slightly menacing look. Below their names, the title 'THE PRICE WE PAY' is written in large, bold, yellow letters. The background is a desaturated, yellowish-brown landscape. In the lower left, a woman in a white dress is lying on the ground. In the lower right, a man in a dark jacket and light pants is walking away from the viewer, carrying a rifle over his shoulder. The overall tone is gritty and somber.

Summary of Marty Makary, MD's The Price We Pay Everest Media, 2022-05-30T22:59:00Z

Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 A growing trend in the United States is doctors doing unnecessary vascular procedures on unsuspecting patients These procedures include ballooning stenting and even lasering harmless plaques in leg arteries 2 The event reminded me that health screening can be a powerful tool to detect disease and prevent tragedy but it can also be a business model to recruit patients for treatments they don t need 3 The practice of doing unnecessary procedures on leg vessels is widespread in the medical community I had become aware of this through conversations I d had with my friend Jim Black the chief of vascular surgery at Hopkins 4 Doctors are very good at nudging patients and they know the words that will get their attention For example if an orthopedic surgeon is helping a patient decide between a knee replacement and a nonsurgical option he may mention the joint is bone on bone
