Prompt: Reflect on a time when you questioned or challenged a belief or idea. What prompted your thinking? What was the outcome?

Growing up in a very conservative family in a highly conservative town, it wasn't expected that I would do anything more than get married and raise a well-behaving family. For the good part of my life, I followed that path, feeling as though there was no point in trying to escape, especially when I didn't know of many people who had. I was told that high school was simply a place for me to find a good husband, and then everything would be taken care of. However, during the first day of my biology class, I realized that I had actually developed a deep interest in the subject and wanted to learn more. This interest is why I hope that this Purdue application essay conveys my passion for Biology and its applications in the medical field.

After I took the introductory biology course, I continued on to take the advanced biology course offered at my school. However, since there were no more available, I had to specially arrange to take biology courses at the local community college afterwards. Although I faced much pushback from my family, not wanting me to go through the trouble, I was determined to learn more. I completed all the paperwork myself, and even got a part-time job to help pay for the course fees. This experience showed me the importance of seizing opportunities, especially when they pertain to your future.

I am now ready to take the next step in my scientific career in applying to Purdue University. The natural sciences program is excellent, and I know that I will gain invaluable knowledge as well as research experience during my time in college. I look forward to networking with new friends and expanding my worldview through extracurricular activities, and I know that my time in Purdue University will allow me to become a better scientist in the future.
