Exam- Inpatient Obstetric Nurse Exam -

with verified answers-2022

1: Late in pregnancy, a patient often develops supine hypotension because of

a. partial occlusion of the vena cava and aorta.

b. decreased peripheral collateral circulation.

c. increased blood flow to the placenta. - A because of partial occlusion of the vena cava and aorta from the weight of the uterus.

This impedes venous return from the lower extremities although increased collateral circulation during pregnancy helps to compensate. Remaining in the supine position for long periods of time could decrease fetal oxygenation as well. The lateral recumbent position relieves the pressure on the vena cava and aorta, allowing the blood pressure to increase and symptoms to decrease.

The nurse must educate the new mother that a contraindication to breast feeding is

a. fetal macrosomia.

b. type II diabetes.

c. infection with HIV/AIDS. - C

Some maternal contraindications to breastfeeding include:

-Infection with HIV/AIDS

-Use of antiretroviral medications

-Active TB not treated

-Infection with human T-cell lymphotropic virus

-Illicit drug use

-Use of chemotherapeutic agents

-Radiation therapy (may require only interruption during treatment)

-Use of other medications that pass into the breast milk and may harm the child

-Presence of herpes on the breast

-Presence of varicella lesions on the breast (may resume after lesions crust)

The initial postpartal intervention indicated for a soft boggy uterus is to

a. apply an ice compress.

b. massage the fundus until firm.

c. apply a warm compress. - B

...with the dominant hand while supporting the inferior uterus with the non-dominant hand to prevent trauma. If the fundus does not contract with massage, then further evaluation is indicated to determine if placental fragments remain. After the fundus becomes contracted, the nurse should push firmly downward on the fundus to expel clots that may have pooled.

With the vibroacoustic stimulation test, stimulus with an artificial larynx or other device is applied to the maternal abdomen for

a. 1 to 3 seconds.
