Encyclopedia of Trauma Charles R. Figley, 2012-06-19 Trauma is defined as a sudden potentially deadly experience often leaving lasting troubling memories Traumatology the study of trauma its effects and methods to modify effects is exploding in terms of published works and expanding in terms of scope Originally a narrow specialty within emergency medicine the field now extends to trauma psychology military psychiatry and behavioral health post traumatic stress and stress disorders trauma social work disaster mental health and most recently the subfield of history and trauma with sociohistorical examination of long term effects and meanings of major traumas experienced by whole communities and nations both natural Pompeii Hurricane Katrina and man made the Holocaust 9-11 One reason for this expansion involves important scientific breakthroughs in detecting the neurobiology of trauma that is connecting biology with human behavior which in turn is applicable to all fields involving human thought and response including but not limited to psychiatry medicine and the health sciences the social and behavioral sciences the humanities and law Researchers within these fields and more can contribute to a universal understanding of immediate and long term consequences both good and bad of trauma both for individuals and for broader communities and institutions Trauma encyclopedias published to date all center around psychological trauma and its emotional effects on the individual as a disabling or mental disorder requiring mental health services This element is vital and has benefited from scientific and professional breakthroughs in theory research and applications Our encyclopedia certainly will cover this central element but our expanded conceptualization will include the other disciplines and will move beyond the individual

First Do No Self Harm Charles Figley, Peter Huggard, Charlotte Rees, 2013-09-05 First Do No Self Harm by three medical and mental health educators offers a clarion call for the improved medical and mental health of physicians across their education continuum by posing and answering five fundamental questions about sources of stress and methods of coping among physicians and medical students Social Psychology of Intergroup Reconciliation Arie Nadler, Thomas Malloy, Jeffrey D. Fisher, 2008-03-10 The volume begins with an overview by Herbert Kelman discussing reconciliation as distinct from related processes of conflict settlement and conflict resolution Following that the first section of the volume focuses on intergroup reconciliation as consisting of moving beyond feelings of guilt and victimization i e socio emotional reconciliation These processes include acceptance of responsibility for past wrongdoings and being forgiven in return Such processes must occur on the background of restoring and maintaining feelings of esteem and respect for each of the parties The chapters in the second section focus on processes through which parties learn to co exist in a conflict free environment and trust each other i e instrumental reconciliation Such learning results from prolonged contact between adversarial groups under optimal conditions Chapters in this section highlight the critical role of identity related processes e g common identity and power equality in this context The contributions in the third part apply the social psychological insights discussed previously to an analysis of real world programs to bring reconciliation e g Tutsis and Hutus in Rwanda Israelis and Palestinians and African societies plagued by the HIV epidemic and the Western aid donors In a concluding chapter Morton Deutsch shares his insights on intergroup reconciliation that have accumulated in close to six decades of work on conflict and its resolution Engaging Violence Ivana

Maček, 2014-03-26 This volume opens up new ground in the field of social representations research by focusing on contexts involving mass violence rather than on relatively stable societies Representations of violence are not only symbolic but in the first place affective and bodily especially when it comes to traumatic experiences Exploring the responses of researchers educators students and practitioners to long term engagement with this emotionally demanding material the book considers how empathic knowledge can make working in this field more bearable and deepen our understanding of the Holocaust genocide war and mass political violence Bringing together international contributors from a range of disciplines including anthropology clinical psychology history history of ideas religious studies social psychology and sociology the book explores how scholars students and professionals engaged with violence deal with the inevitable emotional stresses and vicarious trauma they experience Each chapter draws on personal histories and many suggest new theoretical and methodological concepts to investigate emotional reactions to this material The insights gained through these reflections can function protectively enabling those who work in this field to handle adverse situations more effectively and can yield valuable knowledge about violence itself allowing researchers teachers and professionals to better understand their materials and collocutors Engaging Violence Trauma memory and representation will be of key value to students scholars psychologists humanitarian aid workers UN personnel policy makers social workers and others who are engaged directly or indirectly with mass political violence war or genocide Treating Traumatic Bereavement Laurie Anne Pearlman, Camille B.
