sensory studies Organized around the five traditional senses followed by a section on multisensoriality the collection facilitates a dialogue between scholars working on literature written from the Middle Ages to the present day

Reformation Marriage Michael Parsons, 2011-09-15 For centuries its critics have argued that the Reformation was all about sex Beyond the caricature there is something significant in the observation The theological revolution which began in Wittenberg and engulfed so much of early modern Europe was not confined to the cloister of the university it had an immediate and palpable impact on everyday life Historians such as Steven Ozment have done much to bring this dimension of the Reformation's impact into full view Michael Parsons' important study Reformation Marriage continues this exploration Aware of appeals made to the teaching of the Reformers by both sides of contemporary debates about gender and relational issues Dr Parsons allows us to hear Luther and Calvin for ourselves locating their comments about family life against the background of medieval teaching on the subject and placing them in the context of each man's wider theological concerns Here is careful and accessible scholarship that challenges popular misunderstandings about the contribution of the Reformation in this area Mark D Thompson Moore Theological College Sydney Australia In the only book specifically on the subject to date Michael Parsons investigates the theology of marriage in the writings of Martin Luther and John Calvin carefully examining a daunting breadth of the Reformers' theological exegetical and homiletic works He concentrates on the role of the wife in the conjugal relationship but avoids the common polarity between the modern feminist critique of the woman's role in a Christian understanding of marriage and society and those who simply ignore the gender difference between man and woman While appreciating the questions raised by the modern liberationist and feminist scholars of the Reformers Parsons believes they have generally failed to deal with the corpus of the Reformers in a sufficiently nuanced way On the other hand unlike some scholars who want to rescue these Reformers from contemporary criticism Parsons carefully argues from wide primary evidence that neither Luther nor Calvin envisaged modifying the traditional hierarchical structure of marriage or the subordinationist conjugal relationship between man and woman He refuses to turn the Reformers into pro twenty first century thinkers much as we might like them to conform more readily to our own contemporary attitudes His interpretation therefore injects a much needed dimension of historical realism into the ongoing scholarly debate on the Reformers' social theology Rowan Strong Murdoch University Perth Western Australia in the process of negotiation with different limiting factors and thresholds of patriarchy to claim their due space and affirm their identity The present study is an attempt to critically investigate the negotiations with cultural norms by the women characters in the selected novels by the contemporary novelists namely Manju Kapur and Anita Nair Almost all the women characters major and minor from the selected novels have been considered and positioned as per their ideological leanings and convictions under two thematic chapters namely Women in the Clutches of Traditional Norms and Tradition to Modernity The major issues around which the novels move education marriage gendered space and mother daughter relationships are taken up to put them within the contemporary social conditions in which women characters live The present book is divided into five chapters to make a critical and analytical study of the select novels of these contemporary Indian women writers in English The present work is focused on five selected novels Manju Kapur s Difficult Daughters Home and Custody and Anita Nair s Ladies Coup and Mistress

In Search of the Swan Maiden Barbara Fass Leavy, 1995-07-01 In her compendious study of the folktale of the runaway wife Leavy argues that the contradictory claims of nature and culture are embodied in the legendary figure of the swan maiden a woman torn between the human and bestial worlds The New York Times Book Review This is a study of the meaning of gender as framed by the swan maiden tale a story found in the folklore of virtually every culture The swan maiden is a supernatural woman forced to marry keep house and bear children for a mortal man who holds the key to her imprisonment When she manages to regain this key she escapes to the otherworld never to return These tales have most often been interpreted as depicting exogamous marriages describing the girl from another tribe trapped in a world where she will always be the outsider Barbara Fass Leavy believes that in the societies in which the tale and its variants endured woman was the other the outsider trapped in a society that could never be her own Leavy shows how the tale though rarely explicitly recognized is frequently replayed in modern literature Beautifully written this book reveals the myriad ways in which the folktales of a society reflect its cultural values and particularly how folktales are allegories of gender relations It will interest anyone involved in literary gender and cultural studies
