Response to the Other Robert P. Vande Kappelle,2020-10-20 Human beings seek meaning and purpose To do so we tell stories about the past which we call history and stories about what will occur in the future constructed from memory and imagination History is not a subject we study but one we live History is our medium as water is to fish No period of antiquity is more informative and influential for Western civilization than the Greco Roman the period from the time of Alexander the Great to the fall of the Roman Empire an age that saw the emergence of Judaism and Christianity twin traditions shaped against the background of pagan dominance The meeting between Jew and Greek Christian and pagan revolutionized the ancient world It represented a crucial moment in the history of Western society when politics economics culture and religion took a new turn In time these separate streams mingled and merged forming the single and ever widening current that gave birth to modernity Moving against the stream of religious exclusivism this book does not seek to further the cause of one particular religious perspective but rather to gain insight on how ancient pagans Jews and Christians interacted with one another This study advances contemporary attempts at dialogue and cooperation enabling people of differing agendas to focus their energy on finding solutions to problems plaguing our planet Response to the Other has much to offer specialists and non specialists alike This work can be used as a study guide the questions at the end of each chapter suitable for individual or group use

Culturally Responsive Methodologies Mere Berryman,Suzanne SooHoo,Ann Nevin,2013-01-17 This book offers new methodologies that require the researcher to develop relationships that may enable them to intimately come to respect and know the Other with whom they seek to study

Christian Faith and Christian Learning Clare Watkins,James Butler,2025-07-31 Following a critical analysis of the pedagogical theology and practice of Christian learning this book develops a radical alternative account of faith learning Recognising the ways in which institutionally anxious churches are turning to processes of education and disciplining it takes the reader through a theological action research journey to offer a practical theological response to the question of how

Christian faith is learnt and handed on in ways that really make a difference Through close engagement with the practicalities of one declining denomination British Methodism the authors offer a distinctive vision of Christian learning and enable fresh thinking and practice There is a call for a move beyond educational courses towards a more profound engagement with the complexities of real life as not only the place but the matter of faith learning Theologically the book offers a vision which pursues questions of divine and human agency the work of the Spirit in learning the role of normative tradition and the important place of Christian lay people and their daily lives in learning Ultimately it seeks to give substance to a fresh concept of faith learning which is holistic integrative and inductively achieved and finds its fulfilment in lives lived in faith hope and love
