

Chapter 7

NOW THERE WERE three of us sitting in the waiting room waiting to hear how Dally and Johnny were. Then the reporters and the police came. They asked too many questions too fast, and got me mixed up. If you want to know the truth, I wasn't feeling real good in the first place. Kind of sick, really. And I'm scared of policemen anyway. The reporters fired one question right after another at me and got me so confused I didn't know what was coming off. Darry finally told them I wasn't in any shape to be yelled at so much and they slowed down a little. Darry's kinda big.

Sodapop kept them in stitches. He'd grab one guy's press hat and another's camera and walk around interviewing the nurses and mimicking TV reporters. He tried to lift a policeman's gun and grinned so crazily when he was caught that the policeman had to grin too. Soda can make anyone grin. I managed to get hold of some hair grease and comb my hair back so that it looked a little better before they got any pictures. I'd die if I got my picture in the paper with my hair looking so lousy. Darry and Sodapop were in the pictures too; Jerry Wood told me that if Sodapop and Darry hadn't been so good-looking, they wouldn't have taken so many. That was public appeal, he said.

Soda was really getting a kick out of all this. I guess he would have enjoyed it more if it hadn't been so serious, but he couldn't resist anything that caused that much excitement. I swear, sometimes he reminds me of a colt. A long-legged palomino colt that has to get his nose into everything. The reporters stared at him admiringly; I told you he looks like a movie star, and he kind of radiates.

Finally, even Sodapop got tired of the reporter--- he gets bored with the same old thing after a time--- and stretching out on the long bench, he put his head in Darry's lap and went to sleep. I guess both of them were tired--- it was late at night and I knew they hadn't had much sleep during the week. Even while I was answering questions I remembered that it had been only a few hours since I was sleeping off a smoke in the corner of the church. Already it was an unreal dream and yet, at the time I couldn't have imagined any other world. Finally, the reporters started to leave, along with the police.

S.E. Business on Trial Valerie P. Hans, 2000-01-01 Annotation Are jury verdicts in business trials influenced less by a corporation's negligence than by sympathy for the plaintiffs' prejudice against business and a belief in the corporation's deep pockets Many members of the public and corporate executives believe that this is so and they feel that the jury's decision making presents serious problems for American business competitiveness and its justice system This book the first to provide a systematic account of how juries make decisions in typical business cases shows that these assumptions are false or exaggerated Drawing on interviews with civil jurors experiments with mock jurors and public opinion polling Valerie P. Hans explores how jurors determine whether businesses should be held responsible for an injury She finds that many civil jurors rather than being overly sympathetic to plaintiffs who bring civil lawsuits are actually hostile to them that there are only occasional instances of anti-business prejudice and that there is no evidence of the deep pockets hypothesis Hans concludes that jurors do treat businesses differently than individuals but this is because the public has higher expectations of corporations and more rigorous standards for their conduct
