The Moon and Sixpence Somerset Maugham, 2025-05-12 The Moon and Sixpence by W Somerset Maugham is a novel inspired by the life of the painter Paul Gauguin and explores the conflict between conventional life and the pursuit of artistic passion The story follows Charles Strickland a seemingly ordinary London stockbroker who abruptly abandons his family and career to chase his desire to paint As Strickland moves from England to Paris and eventually to Tahiti he descends into poverty and social alienation but also finds creative freedom and a profound if troubling sense of purpose Since its publication The Moon and Sixpence has been celebrated for its compelling exploration of obsession genius and the cost of uncompromising individuality Maugham presents a character who is both repulsive and fascinating challenging readers to reconsider the boundaries between selfishness and artistic greatness The novel questions the price of beauty and the moral ambiguities that often accompany the pursuit of a higher calling Its lasting relevance lies in its portrayal of the tensions between society's expectations and the inner demands of the creative spirit The Moon and Sixpence remains a thought provoking meditation on the sacrifices made in the name of art and the mysterious often destructive nature of true inspiration

The Moon and Sixpence - The Original Classic Edition W Somerset Maugham,2012-02 It has been noted many times that artists are usually not the most pleasant human beings to be around Maugham s novel is among other things a compelling examination of why this is so The obsessed artist who dominates this book Charles Strickland based on the notorious Paul Gauguin walks away from his cushy middle class existence in England to pursue his dream to paint amid frightful poverty in France Strickland is an unforgettable character an inarticulate brutishly sensual creature callously indifferent to his fellow man and even his own health who lives only to record his private visions on canvas It would be a mistake to read this novel as an inspiring tale of the triumph of the spirit Strickland is an appalling human being but the world itself Maugham seems to say is a cruel forbidding place The author toys with the strongly Nietzschean idea that men like Charles Strickland may somehow be closer to the mad pulse of life and cannot therefore be dismissed as mere egotists The moralists among us the book suggests are simply shrinking violets if not outright hypocrites It is not a very cheery conception of humanity and arguably not an accurate one but the questions Maugham raises are fascinating Aside from that he is a wonderful storyteller This book is a real page turner When he first meets Charles Strickland a London stockbroker the young narrator of this novel thinks of him as good honest dull and plain When Strickland suddenly abandons his wife and children and takes off for Paris however the narrator decides he is a cad Though he has had no training Strickland has decided to become an artist a drive so strong that he is willing to sacrifice everything toward that end Anti social and feeling no obligation to observe even the smallest social decencies Strickland becomes increasingly boorish as he practices his art Eventually he makes his way to Tahiti where he marries moves to a remote cottage and spends the rest of his life devoted to his painting Basing the novel loosely on the life of Paul Gauguin Maugham creates an involving and often exciting story His narrator is a writer who feels impelled after Strickland's death and posthumous success to set down his memories of his early interactions with Strickland in London and Paris Because the narrator never saw Strickland after he left Paris he depends on his meetings with a ship captain and a woman in Papeete for information about Strickland after Strickland's arrival in Tahiti The ship captain is described as a story teller who may be spinning tall tales a constant reminder to the reader that this is fiction and not a biography of Gauguin By depicting Strickland as a dull plain man suddenly gripped by an obsession so overwhelming that nothing else matters to him Maugham involves the reader in his actions which even the narrator claims not to understand The least convincing aspect of Strickland's characterization is the narrator's observation that Strickland is completely indifferent to his wife of seventeen years and his children No confrontation between Strickland and his wife appears and one wonders if perhaps Maugham found himself unable to depict such an abandonment realistically The story moves quickly however and whatever is sacrificed in the characterization is more than recouped in the plot and its development Straightforward in its story line the novel is romantic in its depiction of the artist in the grip of an obsession his subsequent abandonment of civilization and return to nature his suffering of a long and terminal illness during which he paints his masterpiece and the fate of this creation Good old fashioned story telling at its best this uncomplicated story written in 1919 still has broad appeal

The New Records, 1986 Advice to the Seafarer Herb Payson, 1997 Combines great advice for those contemplating live aboard cruising with stories and anecdotes from the author's 20 years of sailing loosely following a question and answer format Offers practical suggestions and philosophical asides on getting started building and buying a boat water and fuel

Strangers in the South Seas Richard Lansdown, 2006-04-30 Long before Magellan entered the Pacific in 1521 Westerners entertained ideas of undiscovered oceans mighty continents and paradisaic islands at the far ends of the earth First set down by Egyptian storytellers Greek philosophers and Latin poets such ideas

would have a long life and a deep impact in both the Pacific and the West With the discovery of Tahiti in 1767 another powerful myth was added to this collection the noble savage For the first time Westerners were confronted by a people who seemed happier than themselves This revolution in the human sciences was accompanied by one in the natural sciences as the region revealed gaps and anomalies in the great chain of being that Charles Darwin would begin to address after his momentous visit to the Galapagos Islands The Pacific produced similar challenges for nineteenth century researchers on race and culture and for those intent on exporting their religions to this immense quarter of the globe Although most missionary efforts ultimately met with success others ended in ignominious retreat As the century wore on the region presented opportunities and dilemmas for the imperial powers leading to a guilty desire on the part of some to pull out along with an equally guilty desire on the part of others to stay and help This process was accelerated by the Pacific War between 1941 and 1945 After more than two millennia of fantasies the story of the West's fascination with the insular Pacific graduated to a marked sense of disillusion that is equally visible in the paintings of Gauguin and the journalism of the nuclear Pacific Strangers in the South Seas recounts and illustrates this story using a wealth of primary texts It includes generous excerpts from the work of explorers soldiers naturalists anthropologists artists and writers some famous some obscure It begins in 1521 with an account of Guam by Antonio Pigafetta one of the few men to survive Magellan's circumnavigation voyage and ends in the late 1980s with the writing of an American woman Joana McIntyre Varawa as she faces the personal and cultural insecurities of marriage and settlement in Fiji It shows how the Great South Sea has been an irreplaceable distant mirror of the West and its intellectual obsessions since the Renaissance Comprehensively illustrated and annotated this anthology will introduce readers to a region central to the development of modern Western ideas This is a carefully conceived anthology covering an excellent range of subjects The selections are well chosen and interesting and the introductory materials are both scholarly and accessible It should be widely used in university courses dealing with almost any aspect of the Pacific Rod Edmond University of Kent at Canterbury The Arvon Book of Life Writing Sally Cline, Carole Angier, 2010-06-01 Essential reading for anyone interested in writing biography or memoir with practical advice from successful biographers and creative writing teachers Made in Paradise Luis Reyes, 1995
