In Girls in Trouble with the Law sociologist Laurie Schaffner takes us inside juvenile detention centers and explores the worlds of the young women incarcerated within Across the nation girls of color are disproportionately represented in detention facilities and many report having experienced physical harm and sexual assaults For girls the meaning of these and other factors such as the violence they experience remain undertheorized and below the radar of mainstream sociolegal scholarship When gender is considered as an analytic category Schaffner shows how gender is often seen through an outmoded lens Offering a critical assessment of what she describes as a gender insensitive juvenile legal system Schaffner makes a compelling argument that current policies do not go far enough to empower disadvantaged girls so that communities can assist them in overcoming the social limitations and gender sexual and racial ethnic discrimination that continue to plague young women growing up in contemporary United States Cooking in Other Women's Kitchens, Enhanced Ebook Rebecca Sharpless, 2013-02-01

As African American women left the plantation economy behind many entered domestic service in southern cities and towns Cooking was one of the primary jobs they performed feeding generations of white families and in the process profoundly shaping southern foodways and culture In Cooking in Other Women's Kitchens Domestic Workers in the South 1865-1960 Rebecca Sharpless argues that in the face of discrimination long workdays and low wages African American cooks worked to assert measures of control over their own lives As employment opportunities expanded in the twentieth century most African American women chose to leave cooking for more lucrative and less oppressive manufacturing clerical or professional positions Through letters autobiography and oral history Sharpless evokes African American women's voices from slavery to the open economy examining their lives at work and at home The enhanced electronic version of the book includes twenty letters photographs first person narratives
