Each of these diaries has been transcribed from the original or from a first generation copy of the original provided to me by the crewmember or his immediate family My father was 1Lt E J Joe Harvey the pilot on this crew and it was the transcription of his diary that began this project Lt Harvey s notes were hand printed in block capital letters and an effort has been made to retain that personality in this transcription For each combat mission Lt Harvey also included carefully cut and folded newspaper accounts which have also been transcribed and where possible the source newspaper identified An effort has been made to duplicate the newsprint type column size and position as much as possible to retain the look of his original diary From his diary I learned the names of the other members of his crew and their hometown at that time Using that information I ve been able to locate all the members of the crew or their family Six others have provided me with copies of their diary for which I am most grateful and I have included transcriptions of these diaries in this combined record Because Lt Harvey provided an entry for every day even when not flying and because his diary covers the greatest period of time from the first of January through the middle of June 1945 his diary provides the date stamp and serves as the basis for all of the other records This combined chronological record includes the seven available records of all 9 members of this last combat crew of the Out House Mouse Thus this record includes the diary of 2Lt Phil Darby the co pilot provided by Mr Darby the diary of 2Lt Marty Raber the bombardier who actually sent me his original diary and his scrapbook for my use in preparing this book the diary of 2Lt Paul Katz the navigator for the crew provided by his wife Joan Katz the diary of S Sgt Niel C Jorgenson the crew s flight engineer which has been provided by his daughter Ms Susan Lunt who also provided the computer scans of the photographs of the flight crew and their signatures at the beginning of this book The remaining records are the Mission Sheets of the ball turret gunner S Sgt George H Odenwaller and the diary of the tail gunner S Sgt Walter M Limberger Both of these gentlemen provided me with a hand written reproduction of their diary The last record of course is that of Lt Harvey from which all of this has grown Following the entries of the pilot and co pilot the entries from the other five diaries are arranged in a nose to tail order of that crewmember s position aboard the Out House Mouse Each of these records is separated from the others by a break line with each contributing member identified In addition the individual contributions also use a different type font A sincere effort has been made to replicate the handwriting and format the diarist used in each of the original records For example while most of the diary authors established a format for reporting the specific important facts of their missions and recorded these facts in hand printed letters Paul Katz wrote his diary in long hand using a narrative style and addressed it to his wife Joan Consequently for Lt Katz I chose a script font to replicate the transcription of his diary Mission days are preceded by a small pilot s wing prior to the diary date and conclude with the transcription of the newspaper account or accounts that Lt Harvey had so carefully cut folded and pasted into his diary Photographs from these articles have been electronically scanned and reproduced here The Parish Is the Issue Loren B. The Last Days of Big Grassy Fork Hunter James,2021-12-14 The Last Days of Big Grassy Fork recounts newspaperman Hunter James s attempts to save his 100 year old family farm and homestead from extinction Wise irreverent pugnacious and often hilarious James fights back against the galloping urbanization of his beloved North Carolina piedmont Interweaving current affairs and family history James details the growth of the Winston Salem area as a center of Moravian piety and later as the world s largest tobacco manufacturing center This personal history shows he is not the only James to have had a difficult time fitting in with the neighbors idea of progress his family s trouble in the Piedmont began early In 1904 his grandfather was flooded out of a brothel in his birthday suit and he later scandalized the local Baptist church with drunken sermons exposing the dark secrets of the congregation James s unique sense of the absurd and his willingness to play the fool make for entertaining reading as each of his efforts at preservation fail miserably He accidentally torches a neighbor s barn in an attempt to burn off his best pasture land as was always done in the past he squanders enormous amounts of money vainly trying to save his farm by becoming the piedmont s preeminent lord of the manor vintner wine snob and horseman and he finally seals his own doom when in alliance with his neighbors he inadvertently creates the world s largest garbage pit The book ends with an eloquent plea for a true agrarianism in the modern South for the need to strike a balance between the call for industrial expansion and the desire to preserve the land

The Hunter Elite Tara Kathleen Kelly,2018-03-15 At the end of the nineteenth century Theodore Roosevelt T S Van Dyke and other elite men began describing their big game hunting as manly sport with the rifle They also began writing about their experiences publishing hundreds of narratives of hunting and adventure in the popular press and creating a new literary genre in the process But why did so many of these big game hunters publish What was writing actually doing for them and what did it do for readers In exploring these questions The Hunter Elite reveals new connections among hunting narratives publishing and the American conservation movement Beginning in the 1880s these prolific hunter writers told readers that big game hunting was a test of self restraint and manly virtues and that it was not about violence They also opposed their sportsmanlike hunting to the slaughtering of game by British imperialists even as they hunted across North America and throughout the British Empire Their references to Americanism and manliness appealed to traditional values but they used very modern publishing technologies to sell their stories and by 1900 they were reaching hundreds of thousands of readers every month When hunter writers took up conservation as a cause they used that reach to rally popular support for the national parks and for legislation that restricted hunting in the US Canada and Newfoundland The Hunter Elite is the first book to explore both the international nature of American hunting during this period and the essential contributions of hunting narratives and the publishing industry to the North American conservation movement
